Soyuz in orbit awaiting Apollo launch

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A two-man Russian Soyuz ship blazed away from earth today on the first of twin launchings that aim for a link-up in space between Soviet cosmonauts and American astronauts.

Cosmonauts Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubyasov rocketed flawlessly into orbit from the Baikonur Cosmodrome on the edge of a central Russian desert where 90-degree temperatures and bleak landscape resembled the flat, dry areas of West Texas.

"Everything is normal, normal; everything is perfect. We are in good health," Leonov reported after they had completed their first circuit of the globe and checked out their spaceship systems.

Liftoff from the base, 1,400 miles southeast of Moscow, was right on time at 8:20 a.m. EDT. Ten minutes later, the Soviet Mission Control Center reported Soyuz was in a near-perfect orbit ranging from 114 to 136 miles high, moving at more than 17,000 miles an hour.

At Cape Canaveral, half a world away, the countdown proceeded without a hitch on the Saturn rocket which was to hoist Apollo astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton away from this seaside launch base. In midmorning, thunderstorm clouds built up over the Atlantic east of Cape Canaveral, but space agency meteorologists predicted there would be favorable weather at launch time.

Because of their late liftoff, the astronauts were still in bed and did not watch the Russian launch on television. They awakened at 10:10 a.m. and watched a videotape replay of the launch as they ate the traditional launch day breakfast of steak and eggs.

They immediately dispatched a message to the Soviet control center which was relayed to the cosmonauts. It read: "Congratulations on a great launch."

Soon after Soyuz shot into orbit, Soviet party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev messaged the cosmonauts, wishing them a "happy flight and a successful completion of your task, and a safe return to your homeland." He also wished their American counterparts well.

"Thank you very much," Leonov replied.

President Ford, who watched the launch on television in Washington, wished the spacemen "the very best."

The only problem was the failure of a television camera aboard Soyuz. It was to have once keen rivals in space.

For the first time, the Soviet Union provided live televised coverage of one of its launchings to the rest of the world. But Western newsmen were barred from the launch site at Baikonur.

Millions watched as the rocket burst away from its launch pad and carved a fiery path in a clear sky, pitching quickly over toward the northeast.

The booster accelerated rapidly and drilled Soyuz into orbit at more than 17,000 miles an hour.

As the rocket rose, the flight control center provided news centers in Moscow, Cape Canaveral and Houston with a running commentary, using such phrases as "the engines are stable. The crew reports first stage shutdown and third stage ignition."

There were no direct comments from the crew.

Once in orbit, Soyuz spread its two solar panels, which collect heat from the sun and convert it to energy.

"Have a happy flight," the control center communicator told the cosmonauts as they flew out of radio range of the first tracking station.

Earlier, a worldwide audience had a ringside seat as the cosmonauts arrived at the launching pad and Commander Leonov saluted the government commission overseeing the launch, saying:

"The crew of Soyuz is ready for the joint flight with the American spaceship Apollo."

"I wish you a lucky flight and a successful return to earth," a voice replied, but the speaker was not shown.

As the cosmonauts mounted the steps to the elevator for the trip to the top of the 150-foot, three-stage rocket, an unidentified voice called out the Russian expression for "good luck."

Leonov replied with the customary Russian response — "To the devil."

They checked out systems aboard the spacecraft, found no problems, and spent the final minutes before blastoff listening to music played over their communications system.

The Soviet rocket lifted quickly from its pad after first stage engine ignition, in contrast to the American Saturn rocket, which is held on the pad by restraining arms for a few seconds until full thrust is achieved.

Senate votes to extend oil controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate today passed and sent to the House a bill that would extend the government's authority to control the price of oil produced in the United States.

The bill, approved 62 to 29, is being pushed by opponents of President Ford's energy program. It would extend the Petroleum Allocation Act, now scheduled to expire Aug. 31, until March 31, 1976.

Ford has threatened to veto the extension unless Congress permits him to implement a proposal to phase out the price controls on domestic oil over the next 2½ years.

Such a veto, unless overturned by Congress, would bring an immediate end to the price controls when the current act expires Aug. 31.

That could mean a 15-cent-per-gallon increase in oil prices, according to estimates of the Senate Interior Committee.

As the basis of his energy program, Ford seeks to remove controls from oil and natural-gas prices. He is sending his oil-decontrol program to Congress this week.

The Ford administration estimates the plan for phasing out oil controls over 30 months would cost an extra seven cents for gasoline, raise the cost of living by nearly 1 per cent, and boost the average family's energy bill by $200 a year.

The Interior Committee says the action would cost the average four-member family $600 a year. Consumer advocate Ralph Nader estimates $900.

Administration officials say this is the price the nation must pay to increase its supplies of domestically produced oil and to conserve energy.

Ford's plan, announced Monday, would phase out petroleum price controls over the next 30 months, a move the President called a compromise between continued controls and immediate decontrol.

Congress will have five days to turn down Ford's plan after it is formally submitted. The President indicated he might veto legislation to extend the Petroleum Allocation Act, under which the controls were imposed. The Senate votes today on a bill extending the controls until March 1, 1976.

If Congress failed to override the veto, all controls would terminate when the act expires Aug. 31, leaving the oil companies free to increase their prices without government restraint.

The price of oil is controlled under a "two-tier" system. About 40 per cent of the oil consumed in the United States is sold at $5.25 a barrel. The remainder is sold at uncontrolled world prices, currently about $12.50 a barrel.

This system would be eliminated by the Ford proposal, under which the cost of a barrel of oil would rise to an estimated price of $13.50 when all controls were removed in January 1978.

After Ford revealed the plan, the Federal Energy Administration conducted a briefing for reporters, predicting that decontrol would have little negative impact on the economy or on an individual's budget.

Eric Zausner, chief deputy to FEA Administrator Frank G. Zarb, said the end of oil price controls could lead to a seven-cent increase in the price of a gallon of gasoline by January 1978 and a 0.8 per cent rise in the Consumer Price Index.

Steward man is apparent suicide

A 34-year-old Steward man was an apparent suicide Monday afternoon.

Robert R. Miles was found hanging from a rafter in a machine shed-garage at his residence shortly before 2 p.m.

Miles was reported to be depressed over the accidental death of his son, Terry. The 14-year-old boy was killed June 26 near his home when he drove his motorcycle into a telephone pole guy wire. Friends believe that Miles was unable to bear the death of his only son.

Lee County Sheriff's Deputies received a call from Miles' mother at 1 p.m. Monday. She had received a call from Miles and reported to deputies that he was going to do something to himself. Miles' wife, Nancy, was notified by the authorities. As she left her house in Steward to look for Miles, his pickup truck was noticed parked beside the machine shed.

John Pelc, West Brooklyn, who was with Mrs. Miles, told deputies that he discovered Miles hanging by a heavy duty extension cord. He was cut down by John Nickle, Rochelle, and attempts to revive him were futile.

It is believed that Miles tied the cord around a rafter and his neck. He then may have jumped off a ladder to his death, according to deputies.

He was pronounced dead at 2:30 p.m. by Bob Torman of the Lee County Coroner's office. Torman has scheduled an inquest Friday.

Miles was born Dec. 8, 1940, in Franklin Grove, the son of Harold and Dorothy (Ansteth) Miles and was married to the former Nancy Zierdt, Oct. 6, 1958, at Media, Pa. He was a member of the Union Church, Sublette, and was employed as a trucker.

Survivors include his widow; two daughters, Robin and Tammy, both at home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Miles, Dixon; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Ansteth, La Moille; three brothers, Leonard, Amboy; John, Dixon, and Ronnie, Oregon; and one sister, Mrs. Patricia Shannon, Dixon.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. in the United Methodist Church, Steward, with the Rev. Thomas Howard, assistant pastor of the Rochelle Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will be in Steward Cemetery. Visitation will be from 1 p.m. until time of the service on Wednesday at the church.

Funeral arrangements were completed by Unger Funeral Home, Rochelle.

Short change artist gets $96

According to Paul E. Bay, managing officer of the company, the "smooth operator" asked to change a $100 bill. In the shuffle, he confused the teller, taking an extra $96.

Little trial bomb threat

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Jury selection continued today in the Joan Little murder trial, in spite of a telephoned threat that a bomb would explode in the Wake County Courthouse.

Judge Hamilton Hobgood said at the start of the day's proceedings the bomb threat had been received. He added: "We have got a real well constructed courthouse here, and it would take a very large detonation to do any damage to the third floor. Anybody who wants to leave can go now, but we are going to stay here and do business."

"I just don't want to evacuate the courthouse every time we get a call. If we do, it will be just like a yoyo all the way through this trial."

Hobgood indicated the building had been searched before court opened.

Red Apple Days finds creativity in kids

A grant from the Illinois Arts Council is making possible a children's art program for the Dixon Park District, called "Red Apple Days."

The program started at Madison School Monday. The children enrolled were treated to an exhibit of the various kinds of art forms and then turned loose for a little creativity of their own making.

Economics an inexact science?

By RONALD REAGAN
John Kenneth Galbraith, who seems determined to prove that economics is an inexact science, has written a new book, "Economics and the Public Purpose."
It has one major surprise. After asserting that "market arrangements in our economy have given us inadequate housing, terrible mass transportation, poor health care and a host of other miseries," for the first time, to my knowledge, he gives socialism as the answer.
Like so many of his philosophical brethren, Galbraith is obsessed with the idea of central control of the economy and the allocation of resources, such as your earnings and your labor.
Recently, he joined with some friends in something called the Initiative Committee for National Economic Planning. "Economic planning," presumably, is the code word for "socialism."

With tongue in cheek, the National Review described Galbraith and his fellow committee members as "bold young radicals." No wonder, because the committee included such old central planning fans as Robert Heilbroner, Gunnar Myrdal, Michael Harrington, Arthur Schlesinger Jr., Leonard Woodcock and even Betty Furness.
Galbraith and his friends seem more interested in dealing with fairy tales than reality. Looking at his quotation above, I wonder where he's been. Already I have lived 10 years longer than my life expectancy when I was born (to the probable annoyance of some).

At that time, something between half and two-thirds of our people lived in what we would describe as substandard housing. Today, fewer than 10 per cent do. And, today 99 per cent have gas and electricity in their homes; 96 per cent have television sets, thus access to information.
And, we have more churches, libraries and voluntary support for more symphonies, operas and non-profit theaters than the rest of the world put together.
Yet, Galbraith & Co. beat the drums incessantly for the control and order that come with central planning.
For a sample of the paradise such planning can produce, we need only look at India and East Germany, to name two.
Better yet, we could emulate a great nation more our size, a nation of some 250 million capable people and one rich in natural resources. The Kremlin has had nearly 60 years in which to make socialism work.
We could be just like the Russians, though it would take a bit of doing.
We'd have to cut our paychecks back by more than 80 per cent; move 33 million workers back to the farm; destroy 59 million television sets; tear up 14 out of every 15 miles of highway; junk 19 of every 20 automobiles; rip up two-thirds of our railroad track; knock down 15 per cent of our houses and remove nine out of every 10 telephones.
Then, all we'd have to do would be to find a capitalist country willing to sell us wheat on credit to keep us from starving.

Indira's gain India's loss

By DON OAKLEY

Because the "world's largest democracy" has consistently behaved as if it also deserved the title of the world's most righteous nation, others may feel a certain grim satisfaction in the fact that when it came to the ultimate test that separates a true democracy from a sham—the choice between the rule of law and the rule of men (or in this case of a woman)—India has shown itself capable of descending into a state of political repression that ranks with any extant today.

But that aside, the dictatorial powers assumed by Prime Minister Indira Gandhi in the name of defending India but actually to perpetuate herself in office can only be viewed with sorrow and dismay.

If India joins the lengthening list of emergent nations that have taken the road to totalitarianism, what hope is there for freedom anywhere in the so-called Third World for which India was in many ways the model?

The answer depends upon how deeply rooted democracy really is on the subcontinent and how grievously Mrs. Gandhi may have injured it. The answer presumably will become known at the end of summer when the reconvening Indian Supreme Court decides whether or not to uphold a regional court decision that found Mrs. Gandhi guilty of illegal election practices and ordered her stripped of her seat in Parliament and, in consequence, of the prime ministership.

In the meantime, she continues to rule by virtue of a stay of the court's order, by a proclamation of a national emergency and by a display of brute force which has seen the jailing of reportedly thousands of her political opponents.

Should the high court rule against Mrs. Gandhi, and should she abide by its decision, the crisis would be resolved with what can be hoped would be a strengthening of democratic institutions in India. Or should the court vindicate her, as it is widely believed it will, the crisis would also be resolved, but with what lasting harm to India it would be difficult to predict.

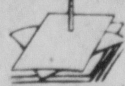

The worst scenario has Mrs. Gandhi defying an adverse ruling, plunging her country deeper into dictatorship and not inconceivably fomenting a civil war.

Many unhappy things could happen before then, however, in the intervening two months.

Since gaining its independence from Britain after World War II, India has been virtually a one-party democracy. Opposition to the overwhelmingly predominant Congress Party has always been weak and fragmented. But the failure of the party to make significant headway against India's abiding problems of population and poverty and economic stagnation and growing popular discontent with widespread corruption in recent years, capped now by the outright suppression of political freedom and Mrs. Gandhi's foolish creation of political martyrs, could result in a dangerous national mood that will not wait upon the word of a handful of judges.

Whether she remains prime minister, legally or illegally, or whether she relinquishes her rule voluntarily or involuntarily, if nothing else Indira Gandhi has by her actions in a few crucial days forfeited the mantle she once wore both as the respected leader of the world's largest democracy and as a spokesman for law and morality in the community of nations.

REFLECTIONS—The last session of the General Assembly was one of the most turbulent in the history of the legislature.

Calvin Schuneman, R-Prophetstown, is a freshman member of the legislature and we recently asked him for his impressions of the session just finished.

He hesitated, and one of two more veteran legislators jokingly chided him, "Are you going to say you are not going to run again?"

To this Schuneman said "No." He then proceeded slowly to answer our question.

"I understand this has been one of the toughest sessions anyone can recall," he observed.

Schuneman said he got a definite impression "We must control the amount of legislation offered and be able to thoroughly consider what is important legislation and find a way to weed out bad bills which should not have been introduced in the first place."

The Prophetstown insurance agency owner-turned legislator noted more than 4,500 bills were introduced during the spring session and confessed, "It is virtually impossible for a legislative body to give each bill under such circumstances the study and consideration it deserves."

Schuneman recalled he introduced a resolution which was passed calling upon the Illinois House to place a limit on the number of bills each member could introduce, excepting emergency and appropriations legislation.

"No one likes to think about placing a limit on the number of bills that can be introduced," Schuneman said, "but the time has come for us to take some decisive action. The people of Illinois deserve better. Legislation designed with their interests in mind must be given thorough deliberation with debate and that is no longer possible under the present volume of bills introduced."

The freshman legislator pointed out if one were to place the bills and amendments introduced in the last session in one stack it would be more than eight feet high.

"No human being can possibly read and understand all that written material in the time the members of the General Assembly are allotted," contended Schuneman.

In conclusion he said, "Hopefully, this was the last session when legislators will be free to introduce all the bills they wish. It's really unfortunate, but we must face the realities and restrain ourselves in an effort to secure the best interests of the people we represent."

Joseph Ebbesen, R-DeKalb, told about an idea passed to him by a Sterling man. He said the suggestion was that a legislator be required to put up a $1,000 bond with each bill he introduced. The total bond would be returned to him if the bill passed both houses of the General Assembly and was signed by the governor, but his refund would be reduced by the point of the route where a bill is stopped en route to becoming a law.

For instance, if it did not get out of committee, the legislator would forfeit all of his bond. If it passed one house and did not get the approval of the other body, he would lose $500 of his bond.

Schuneman and State Sen. David Shapiro, R-Amboy, both opposed this idea, expressing fear vested interest groups would raise "war" chests to put up the bonds for legislators who introduced bills for the special interest groups.

Walker stonewalling

(Reprinted from the Springfield-Journal-Register)

It is strange that Gov. Dan Walker, who talks profusely about political campaign ethics, is going to great lengths to keep from the public the details of his own campaign financing.

Following the 1972 election, friends of the governor formed the All-Illinois Democratic Committee to raise money to help Walker pay off his campaign debts. Activities of this committee have been highly secret. No information as to how much money has been contributed to the committee and by whom has been made public.

The Better Government Association filed a complaint with the Board of Elections, charging that the All-

Illinois Democratic Committee has not filed campaign disclosure reports as required by law.

Shortly before a hearing was to be held on the BGA complaint, Gov. Walker filed suit in Circuit Court to block the hearing.

It is true that the person who was scheduled to conduct the hearing, Elections Board Chairman Michael LaVelle, is an ally of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, who is not on the best political terms with the governor. However, if Gov. Walker has nothing to hide in regard to his political fund-raising, why should this concern him?

In his suit, the governor goes beyond the issue of the hearing in question and challenges the whole structure of the Board of Elections, claiming that because he is required to name Board members from nominees presented to him by legislative leaders, the separation of powers, due process and equal protection clauses of both the federal and state Constitutions are violated.

Perhaps Gov. Walker saw this as an opportunity to seek destruction of the Board of Elections, which was created by a legislative override of his veto. But it appears to us this suit is a stone-walling action by the governor. If he can tie up the Board in Court for the next 18 months, he can avoid having to abide by the Board's rulings during the 1976 campaign.

And he can continue to keep secret the details of his political fund-raising at the same time as he talks about all his proposals for improving political ethics.

Things Dixon Talked About

10 YEARS AGO

The Dixon School Board voted to hire a full-time school psychologist for the first time, and also to adopt a team-teaching method in the high school history classes at a short 65-minute meeting last night.

The new $4.2-million Central Dietary Building at the Dixon State School is just beginning to be put into operation. The bakery portion is currently in use, and the rest of the facilities will be put into operation within a few weeks.

25 YEARS AGO

A member of the Dixon Municipal Airport presented a plan to the Dixon City Council for the building of a six-plane hangar. Total cost of the airport project is estimated at $16,000.

Monday marks the anniversary of two incidents in Dixon's 120-year history. Precisely 50 years ago the cornerstone was laid for the Lee County Courthouse, and in 1856, on this date, Abraham Lincoln gave a campaign speech on the lawn of the previous courthouse.

100 YEARS AGO

"The Dixon Dramatic Association," assisted by professional talent from abroad, will have the honor of appearing at Union Hall, in this city, Friday and Saturday evening, July 23 and 24, on which occasions "Ambition," a tragedy in four acts, will be produced.

High cost of foreign deadbeats

By TOM TIEDE

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It passed totally without public note the other day, but the Soviet Union actually made a payment toward its World War I debt to America.

Yes, by jingo, you read right. True, the $12 million Russian check was 60 years past due, and is merely a nibble of their $722 million outstanding loan, but surely mass celebration is in order. Hoist the colors. Go wake grandma. Anytime America is repaid anything is time for whoopee.

Actually, Russia is not the only nation making some restitution for American generosity in the war against the Kaiser. From time to time Greece and Finland also pay installments on their obligations of the period. Otherwise, though, the United States received nothing. Original American loans in World War I totaled $12 billion and, with interest, have since doubled, yet only crumbs of the total will ever be recovered. Seventeen nations, including France, Italy and Britain, refuse outright to repay a single copper.

But if there is a lesson here concerning the risks and barren fruits of international generosity, some in this town wonder if it will ever be learned. Even now, say a few grumbling members of Congress, the United States is continuing to make massive loans around the world with little hope of fair return. Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia says foreign nations have currently accumulated at least $32.8 billion in U.S. credit of which they will not in some cases and can not in others repay. Rep. Jack Kemp of New York adds that the charity in the best of times is of dubious merit, but is downright nutty in periods when the cheese is hard.

Byrd and Kemp are among a small group of federal lawmakers who periodically growl legislatively about the merits of lending money without attaching collection guarantees. Their efforts are studiously ignored. Complaining in Congress about the foreign debt is of a class with complaining about the public debt—a preserve of those hardy enough to withstand the snickers of their fellows.

Byrd points out vigorously that taxpayers who are now contributing $100 million a day in interest on the national debt are tired of having both interest and principal ignored on most of the foreign debt. His protests, however, are greeted with snores.

In fact, the snores are not overt insults; rather they represent the congressional consensus that even were there a will there would not be a way to collect on the bulk of the foreign debt. That debt, including World War I, now totals more than $56 billion, and as a practical matter is largely an accounting of money that is gone forever. The World War I sum has been a moot issue for years and is kept on the official books only because no one in authority has ever seriously tried to have it removed. As for the rest of the debt ($32.8 billion) it is mostly the result of diplomatic largess rather than hard-headed business procedures, thus returns of friendships or advantages are expected but not necessarily the loans themselves.

On occasions the United States can get tough over old debts. To collect part of some claims against Czechoslovakia, it once seized $125 million worth of Czech gold, and later confiscated Czech funds in this country meant to build a steel mill. Currently, the government is following similar strategies to satisfy claims against the new regime in South Vietnam. But such collection tactics are rare. Normally the United States forgives its debts as it invariably forgives its debtors—$11 billion worth of World War II Lend Lease to Russia was forgotten in the 1940's, as, more recently, was $2 billion in Indian-owed rupees.

In essence, Senator Byrd, Congressman Kemp and their cluster of congressional protesters would put bounds to the U.S. generosity. They feel loans should not be made unless repayment is reasonably assured. They feel pragmatism as well as diplomacy should be part of the loan negotiation process. And they feel the ultimate welchers should be removed from the list of future considerations.

To this end they have introduced various legislation which, given the mood of Congress on this hoary issue, is not expected to go far. But one never knows. If the Soviets are suddenly writing out obligation checks to this country, then anything is possible.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Americans were complaining about mail delivery two centuries ago when colonists grumbled that letters crossing the Atlantic took two weeks longer westbound than eastbound. The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE E-614: Anita B., aged 17, is a high school senior.

"But Dr. Crane," she protested, "I am shy and unpopular, so I wrote to an advice columnist for help."

"And she told me not to worry about my problem but just to act my natural self when I am in a social group."

"But my natural self is timid and without talent, so how can I ever win dates and become popular by just being my mousy natural self?"

Change Yourself!

"Act the way you'd like to be," I have urged you young people for many years, "and soon you'll be the way you act!"

For the advice about just being "yourself" and "acting natural" is not enough!

During infancy, when we act our natural self, we aren't even toilet trained, so our mothers must teach us new habits before we can enter kindergarten.

And unless we follow George Washington's superb advice, we will remain uncouth, vulgar, profane and immoral.

For his generation, George Washington was urged to compromise with the lower codes of society.

Instead, he urged us to raise a high standard to which the wise and just could aspire.

"Not failure but low aim is crime," said Lowell.

So set your goals high, including good English rather than slang and expletives.

Ude deodorants and moderate cosmetic aids.

Brush your teeth regularly and dress neatly but not flamboyantly.

Then your natural self will not repulse people because of "B.O." or halitosis, or gaudy clothes.

Train yourself to use correct grammar, as by the booklet below which contains the commonest mistakes in everyday spoken English.

And rate yourself on the 200-point "Tests for Sweethearts," so you can cultivate the type of charming, attractive personality traits that the opposite sex admires most.

By all means, smile freely, even if you are still shy and figuratively tongue-tied.

To become deft in gay conversation, memorize my H-E-L-P formula for carrying on easy conversation.

The "H" indicates "Hobbies"; the "E," entertainment; the "L," literature, and the "P," politics.

When conversation bogs down, smile and ask your companion a question in one or another of those four fields of information.

For a question is an easy way to break an embarrassing pause!

By all means, remember that everybody wears this invisible tattoo across his or her chest:

"I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT."

So be liberal with honest compliments for your companions.

Affect a gay, happy mood and stand up firmly for moral principles, for boys admire girls with spunk and religious idealism, even though they may date the girls with loose morals just for convenience.

The wedding rings usually go to the girls with principles!

So—act the way you'd like to be and soon you will be the way you act, for charm is not natural at the outset but must be cultivated!

Send for the booklet containing "Commonest Errors in English," enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.

M. Sgt. Ralph Seible, right, instructs members of a reconnaissance party on routing prior to their departure to examine maneuver sites in the forests around Camp Ripley, Minn. Seible was operations sergeant for a 30-member team of Army Reserve umpires who conducted field training exercises and tests for elements of the Minnesota National Guard. He was, as senior sergeant in the team, in charge of all its enlisted men as well as dispatch of operating parties.

Dateline: U.S. Forces

Navy Aviation Machinist's Mate Third Class Steven D. Kuhn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald S. Kuhn of Rt. 1, Oregon, recently completed a five-month deployment with Patrol Squadron 24, home-based at the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Fla.

His unit was temporarily based at Keflavik, Iceland, while conducting anti-submarine warfare training, ice patrols and surface surveillance flights.

A 1971 graduate of Oregon Community High School, he joined the Navy in Sept. 1973.

Cyril Steven Long, 1523 W. Fourth St., Dixon, and a graduate of Dixon High School, has recently accepted an appointment to the United States Air Force Academy near Colorado Springs, Colo.

On June 30, he began a rugged six-week Basic Cadet Training program in order to ASHTON — Dr. W. J. McEniry of the Ashton Veterinary Hospital now has an associate, Dr. Charles Peddicord. Dr. McEniry also operates a veterinary clinic in Rochelle.

Dr. Peddicord is a 1975 graduate of the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine. He received his Bachelor of Science degree at St. Ambrose College, Davenport, Iowa.

He and his wife, Kathy, and their young daughter Chris reside in Ashton at 344 Paddock St.

Scouts attend Camp Lowden

ASHTON — A few members of Ashton's Scout Troop 109 spent a week at Camp Lowden. Those attending were scouts Tom McCannan, Jody Hunter, Mark Frahm, Doug Heier, Brian Swegle, Jim Clark, Scott Dvorak.

The Ashton scouts earned a total of 11 merit badges. Along with the Ashton Troop a few scouts of Byron, Lindenwood, who also received awards. Six were advanced in rank.

A Court of Honor for the Ashton Troop 109 will be held on Aug. 4 at 7 p.m. at the Mills and Petrie Building.

Extension Unit meets

SUBLETTE — The Sublette Unit of Homemakers Extension met recently in the community room of the Farmers State Bank. Hostesses were the new officers for the coming year, Beverly Erbes, chairman; Betty Michels, first vice chairman; Jolene Lindenmeyer, second vice chairman and treasurer; and Jackie Krager, secretary. There was no session given. The chairman announced the 4-H Achievement night which would be held July 22 at 7 p.m. in the Sublette Community Building. Extension members are to donate one dozen cookies and have them at the Community Building that evening for refreshments.

The next meeting will be in September and the major lesson will be "What's New in Appliances." The hostesses will be Mrs. Gene Sondgeroth and Mrs. Donald Donoho Jr.

Kiwanis to meet

MT. MORRIS — Richard Pettit, owner of the Mt. Morris Farm Supply, will be the guest speaker for the Kiwanis Club meeting, Wednesday at noon in the Moose Hall. Pettit will discuss the ups and downs of grain marketing.

Ranger will give program

POLO — Persons who are planning to take their vacations will be interested in the talk given by Ranger Allen Steele of the White Pines State Park at the Wednesday 9:15 a.m. brunch of the Dixon Area Christian Women's Club at Emerald Hill Country Club, Sterling.

He will speak on the geological and historical developments of the White Pines State Park.

The theme of the brunch will be "Summer Fun" and "A Walk Down Musical Lane" will be given by Miss Rosemary Valle, Dixon, and Miss Gloria Shoemaker, Eldena.

The featured speaker, Mrs. George (Lillian) Wallace, Moline, will present "A Walk into the Thoughts Of" as the "Summer Fun" program.

Mrs. Wallace is the mother of a son and two daughters and attended the Illinois State University at Normal. She is presently serving on the Executive Board of the Quad City Church Women United.

Students enrolled in reading program

WALNUT — Ninety-five grade school students have read at least one book since June 9 and so are entitled to be enrolled in the summer reading program sponsored by the Walnut Township Memorial Library.

Carol Jacobs, who will be going into third grade in the fall, has read the most books so far, 98. Other leaders are Diane Bacorn, Brian Waring, Amy Bacorn, Jeff Anderson, Brenda Blohm, and Leanne Fr. z.

Total library circulation for the month of June was 3700, of which 2247 items were circulated in the junior department.

Pipeline

In the frozen Alaskan wilderness, a welder completes a section of the 800-mile-long trans Alaska pipeline (top left). Riggers direct a crane lifting 80-foot-long double-jointed sections of the 48-inch pipe (top center) onto railroad flatcars for shipment to Fairbanks (top right). To facilitate shipping, the pipes are sent in 40-foot lengths which are then welded together (left). Explosives are used to open trenches in which half of the pipeline will be buried (right). The other half will be elevated above the permafrost surface.

Campaign issue

What level of unemployment can be considered acceptable?

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — One of the major political conflicts in the upcoming presidential elections seems to be shaping up over the level at which unemployment can be considered acceptable.

The Ford administration seems willing to let the jobless situation correct itself "naturally," that is, through a gradual and general improvement in overall economic conditions.

It seems willing to accept a jobless rate far in excess of 7 per cent right through 1976, even though this probably would mean losing millions of votes from desperate workers and their families.

Labor leaders consider this unconscionable. AFL-CIO President George Meany accused the administration of deliberate "do-nothingism." He insists we must have massive, job-creating programs.

The Ford administration attitude, he said, "adds up to a callous disregard for the misery and suffering experienced by our nation's unemployed."

Meany's anger was clear in every word as he criticized a statement by Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, that it might be wise to go slow in reducing joblessness because the recession "for all practical purposes" was over.

"Just think of that," said Meany to an assemblage of labor leaders. "He wants them to go back to work but not too soon. He said in effect that this is the price we must pay in order to avoid more inflation."

A decade ago the United States sought and temporarily achieved a goal of fewer than 4 per cent unemployed, a level which many administration officials believe is unachievable in the foreseeable future.

Nevertheless, such a goal can hardly be considered naive, as some critics maintain. The fact is that the United States has tolerated jobless rates far in excess of those in other industrialized countries.

A Labor Department study shows that when the United States jobless rate was 8.7 per cent in March, the comparable rate in Canada was 7.3 per cent, in France 4.9 Germany 3.2, Britain 3.6.

The Ford administration seems concerned that in spurring a return to work it might force another round of inflation upon the economy. Moreover, it doesn't have the budget, it says, to finance the spurs.

But unemployment costs the government also. Unemployment insurance is now estimated to cost more than $20 billion. And those jobless individuals, remember, do not have incomes from which to pay taxes. There is a loss there too.

One thing seems certain — that the issue will be with us well into the election year. You can search but find almost no forecasts of a sharply declining jobless rate.

A management consulting firm, Deutsch, Shea & Evans, polled several hundred corporate personnel managers and found the majority weren't looking for any appreciable change in their employment situations.

The most disturbing portion of the survey concerned long-range employment outlooks. Some 54 per cent projected unemployment to 1980 at 8 per cent or more. Only 30 per cent thought it would be less.

Couple holds divorce party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Everyone had such a good time at the Smiths' wedding 15 months ago, the couple decided to invite all the guests back for another party.

The champagne they received as a wedding gift was opened, and the best man was there to perform the honors — this time removing the wedding bands from the fingers of Ed and Mari Smith.

Ed and Mari filed divorce papers on July 9. Under California law, the final decree will be issued in six months.

The couple hugged — Ed called her "babe" and Mari called him "honey" — and everybody cheered.

Invitations to Saturday night's party read: "You are cordially invited to join us in celebrating our divorce."

Ed, 44, said the party was thrown "to show our friends that Mari and I are not mad at each other."

Couple unite at sunrise

The outdoor chapel at Camp Reynoldswood was the setting for the sunrise wedding service that united Miss Linda Street and Daniel H. Harding.

The bride is the daughter of Joan and James Street, Macomb. The groom is the son of Dwayne Harding, Joliet, and Diane Coons, Dixon.

Performing the ceremony was the Rev. Merle Hall from Dixon's First Methodist Church. The organist was Mrs. Donna Long.

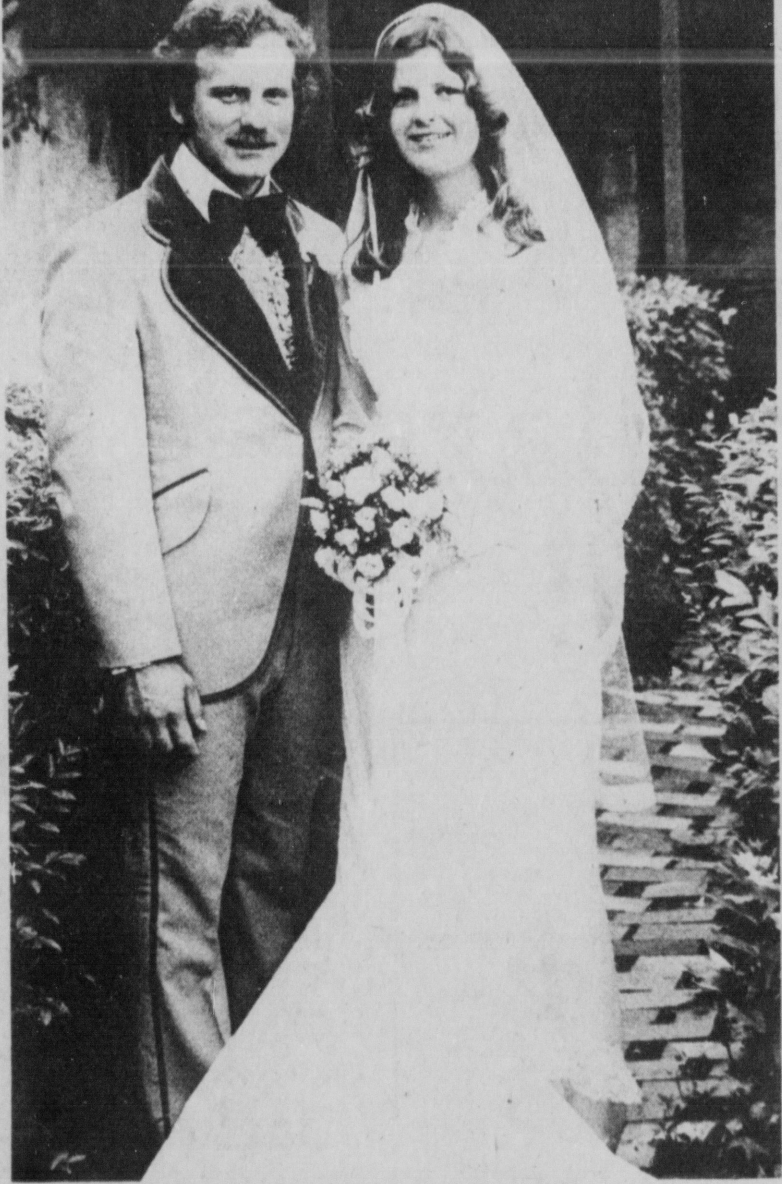

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was attired in a white gown of organza. The bodice was styled with a bib of Cluny ruffled lace and accented by self-fabric pleating. The sheer full bishop sleeves were attached to elongated lace-edged cuffs and the A-line skirt was enhanced by three horizontal rows of Cluny lace, which also decorated the attached chapel-length train. She chose a ballerina-length mantilla, trimmed with matching lace.

Miss Kyna Shryack, Macomb, was maid of honor and wore a floor-length flowered summer gown.

Bridesmaids were Lea Ziegler, Macomb, attired in a pinafore gown. Lynetta Ziegler and Jamie Street, Macomb, wore ecru floor-length gowns fashioned with fitted bodices.

Ken Decker, Chenoa, served as best man. Groomsmen were Dean Harding, Dixon, and Douglas J. Street, Macomb.

A breakfast reception held at Camp Reynoldswood followed the ceremony. Sharing the serving honors were Mrs. Kenneth Jackson, Exton, Pa., the bride's aunt; Mrs. Tony Ziegler, Macomb, Mrs. Craig Hall, Columbus, Ohio, and Miss Dawn Harding, Dixon, sisters of the groom.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL HARDING

The newlyweds departed on a wedding trip to Wyoming. The newlyweds will reside in Industry upon their return, where Mr. Harding is a self-employed farrier.

Enjoy life while playing it safe

By HAROLD BLUMENFELD

Personal security is on the minds of almost every citizen. With the rising crime rate there's a good possibility that anyone, of any age, and in any part of the country might be mugged and robbed. And the danger is more threatening for older persons whose often arthritic hands can't hold on to a purse when a snatcher grabs it, nor walk at a quicker pace on fallen arches to get away from a potential footpad following them.

It's well enough to be advised never to walk alone. But two elderly people together are hardly a match for one younger and stronger person. We all know we should avoid the side streets and walk only on well-lighted main thoroughfares. However many older persons in South Florida, for example, traded their better lit, but probably no safer, concrete thoroughfares for homes here in high apartments and smaller houses on palm tree-shaded and dimly-lit side streets.

They are afraid to go out at night on foot. So they stay home. But how safe are their homes today?

A member of the Public Safety Bureau of almost every police department in Broward and Dade Counties will visit apartment houses and private homes to advise residents how to make their premises secure from a prowler and make entry more difficult for a professional burglar. They will also provide free whistles to be used in an emergency.

A few other communities show such concern for the elderly. More should but for those who don't live in such concerned areas I pass along these tips:

Do not rely on the one lock provided by the builder or left behind by a previous resident. Install a second flush-mounted pick-proof lock. And use the key to double-lock the door when leaving the premises. If not double-locked, any spring latch lock can be opened with a piece of stiff cellophane or the corner of a credit card by a prowler. Put dead bolt locks on other doors which can only be opened from the inside.

A peep hole and a strong night chain will permit opening of the door a few inches to see who rings the doorbell. Positive identification should be made of the person ringing up on the intercom before pressing a buzzer to open the outside door of an apartment house.

Living on ground floors has its hazards and special locks are available for terrace and patio windows and doors. If one can afford the expense, metal shutters on all lower floor glassed areas are an extra protection to keep out unwanted visitors.

By day, leave draperies in a normal or partly opened position. At night, even though there's an energy shortage, it's advisable to leave one or two small lights burning. And, if one has a private garage, don't leave the doors open to show it's empty when you are away.

When gone for more than a day have someone collect newspapers, mail, packages and other things which might collect on a doorstep—a sure sign that the residents are away. Anytime you come home and have a feeling that something is not right in your home or apartment, call for help—the neighbors or the police. It's better to be safe than sorry.

I recently attended a conference of the chiefs of police of 10 cities in Broward County. There were a couple hundred citizens there and all were concerned with the rising crime in their neighborhoods. The most sage advice we all got at the time was, "Don't resist a mugger, prowler or burglar. It's better to be a live coward than a dead hero."

Couple exchanges vows

ASHTON—Dianne Morrison, daughter of Dr. J. L. Palumbo, Ashton, and the late Mrs. Palumbo, recently married Leonard Tullipano, son of Mrs. Rose Tullipano, Oak Park, in a garden ceremony at the home of the bride's father.

The afternoon ceremony was performed by the Rev. T. Gene Kenrickson, former pastor of the Ashton United Methodist Church and now a student at Temple University, Philadelphia, Pa. Attendants were friends of the bride and groom.

Relatives of the bride and groom witnessed the ceremony, including the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Jesse Knicely, Rochelle, and her grandfather, Sam Palumbo, Ashton.

The newlyweds will reside in Evanston, where Mr. Tullipano is employed as a computer programmer and vice president of a company in that area. Mrs. Tullipano is employed on the nursing staff of the Skokie Hospital.

American Legion to meet

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall. Guest speakers will be Miss Tina Miller and Jackie Bogott, the Auxiliary Illini Girl Staters.

Mrs. Tetrick elected MCLA state president

The 31st annual Department of Illinois Marine Corps League Auxiliary Convention met recently at the Holiday Inn, Aurora. Delegates to the convention from the Dixon area unit were Mrs. Kenneth Latta, Mrs. Fred Tetrick and Mrs. Dale Hussung.

MRS. FRED TETRICK

The fifth staff meeting of the year was held June 26. June 27 was the official opening of the convention. On that day, Mrs. Latta and Mrs. Tetrick attended the Past Presidents meeting, followed by the Military Order of Devil Dog Fleas meeting. Mrs. Tetrick was elected Dept. of Ill. Big Flea and Mrs. Latta, Hopper Flea.

On June 28 all three ladies attended the joint session, where allied veterans organizations brought greetings to the Marine Corps League and Auxiliary. When the final business meeting was held in the afternoon, Mrs. Tetrick was elected to the office of state president; Mrs. Latta, Third District vice president, and Mrs. Hussung appointed captain of the guard.

Following the election of officers, awards and citations were presented. The Dixon area unit received two citations: for having over 100 per cent in membership and for their publicity book. They tied for the traveling History Book plaque with Chicago No. 1 unit. They also will receive a streamer for their banner for having their colors at the convention. Mrs. Latta accepted the bowling team trophy for the unit. This is the first year this trophy has been presented.

An awards banquet, installation of officers and dancing ended the convention June 28. Installing officers for the Auxiliary were past deputy presidents Mrs. Richard Olson, Oak Park; Mrs. James Wilkins, Springfield, and Mrs. Kenneth Lenington, Pekin.

The Auxiliary was honored to have Virginia Johnson, president of the state of Michigan, and National President Geraldine Firis as guests.

Sunday morning Mrs. Tetrick presided at the first staff meeting for the ensuing year 1975-76.

Who's New Club meets

Members of the Who's New Club met recently for bridge followed by business, in the Loveland Community House.

The next meeting will be a luncheon session at the Sunset Inn, U.S. 30 and 52, July 22 at 1:15 p.m. Members and area newcomers interested in attending may call the chairperson, Mrs. Raymond Hicks (359-7592) or her assistant, Mrs. Dennis Marsili (284-3864). Reservations are needed before July 19.

High-score bridge-game winners at last Tuesday's meeting included Mrs. Ted Tollefson, Mrs. Adam Carter, Miss Loyola Koehler and Mrs. Masrimas.

Picnic is planned

The 38th annual Nebraska Picnic will be held at the Russell Forest Preserve on Route 72 between Kingston and Genoa, July 20 at 1 p.m.

All former Nebraskans, now residents in this area, are welcome. One hot and old cold dish is to be brought to pass.

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Do you have any suggestions for removing a white stain left on the leather top of an end table after a cup of coffee with milk in it was spilled?—ERNEST.

DEAR ERNEST—There are some things that have no really pat answers and require a bit of experimenting. This seems to be one. The leather was doubtless dyed and the color will have to be restored in some way. I would try rubbing and blending in a liquid brown shoe dye. I am presuming the leather is brown. A cotton-tipped stick wet with iodine might do it also. Or a wax crayon the right color might be worth a try. If the stain feels greasy you might first use a dry-cleaning fluid if washing does not remove it. None of these are guarantees but just possibilities.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with leaking paper milk cartons. No matter what the size I invariably get a "leaker" that causes problems. I wish someone would invent a leakproof container.—MRS. G. H.

DEAR POLLY—My favorite homemaking idea is the way I keep lettuce from wilting and turning brown. Usually by the end of the week the lettuce would have brown spots and I would end up tossing money "down the drain." Now I gently tear the head of lettuce in half, rinse it with cold water, drain it well and then wrap in two or three paper towels and set in an open bowl in the refrigerator. Do not seal the container. My lettuce often will keep for 2 to 3 weeks using this method.—MRS. N.

DEAR READERS—For years we have been getting different solutions for this problem that seems to plague most homemakers. All seem to have different remedies and some are completely opposite from others. When I bring lettuce home from the market I do not wash it but keep it in the closed plastic bag that is put in the vegetable box in the refrigerator. When some is needed it is torn off and then I follow the same procedure as Mrs. N. Try different ways, see what works best for you and then stick to that.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—I have discovered a very useful and welcome gift to take to bridal showers. Buy a large indoor-type plastic trash can and fill it with foil, various cleaning products, dish towels, etc. These are all items newlyweds have to buy but are often overlooked in the confusion of the wedding.—CHERYL.

DEAR CHERYL—Your idea is for a most useful gift but might amount to more dollars and cents than some would want to spend but it also would be great using a smaller container such as a plastic wastebasket or dish pan.8 polly.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite homemaking idea, Pet Peeve, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of Dixon Evening Telegraph. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear ANN: by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a woman 33 years of age. My husband is 36. We both love children very much. I had a hysterectomy last year which means I will never be able to bear a child. My husband is in perfect health, very handsome and would make a wonderful father.

We are not wealthy, but we do have some stocks, bonds and a nice savings account. My husband and I would pay a woman $10,000 to have his child, provided she promised to keep it a secret and relinquish all rights. Together, we would select the candidate. She would stay in our home as a "guest" until she became pregnant. The woman would then be provided for in a nearby city where she could work, if she chose, but all her living expenses would be paid by us.

When she gave birth, we would pay all bills, take the child from the hospital and buy the woman a ticket to any city in the continental United States with the understanding that she would never return.

Are we crazy to want a child who has the genes of at least one of us? Could it work? Should we run a blind ad in the newspaper? Would you be willing to serve as the intermediary?—Hoping

Dear H.: I would not presume to comment on whether or not you are crazy, but the normal adoption procedure is the course rational people would take. I suppose your wild idea COULD work; in fact, I'm sure it has some place . . . at some time. Nothing is so bizarre but that someone has done it.

Don't run any ads. You will be besieged by hundreds of weirdos, oddballs, dingbats and wingy dames.

As for me serving as an "intermediary"—thanks a lot, but no thanks.

Dear Ann Landers: What advice can you give a gal, 28, single, not beautiful, but witty? (Please forgive the bragging.)

To make up for my lack of beauty I find myself trying too hard to be the life of the party. I often feel that I'm pressing to please others. The next day I'm unhappy with myself. Is there any cure for this?—Zelda

Dear Z.: A problem recognized is half solved.

Here's a quote from Pete Hamill, a splendid journalist who says it better than I could: "I realized early that one central reason for my change was that I didn't want to be on anymore. I had spent too many nights entertaining other people—doing numbers on myself that lead only to sweet, bitter afternoons of remorse. I wanted to live a life—not a performance."

Beautifully said, Pete.

Dear Ann Landers: Why would a man who is "over the hill" (and I mean completely impotent) talk about nothing but sex whenever we are out in company? He doesn't know any clean jokes. Only dirty ones. Of course I am describing my husband.

Sometimes I get so embarrassed I'd like to drop through the floor.

P.S. He doesn't drink. What's the matter with him?—Tomato Face

Dear Face: Talk can be a substitute for performance—and hopefully for the talker, a smoke screen. Sometimes an extremely patient and understanding wife can reverse the situation. I also recommend counseling.

Five varieties of biting flies have many varieties of victims

You don't have to be a Northwoods logger like Paul Bunyan, a hiker along the Appalachian Trail or a prospector deep in the desert to suffer the slings and arrows of those airborne summer scourges, biting flies.

Gardeners, outdoor chefs, sunbathers, car polishers and home repairers are just a few of the varieties of human prey sought by bloodthirsty biting flies. Which means we all need insect repellent these days.

The pesky insects most often in need of repelling, biting flies, also come in several varieties, say the experts at the Johnson Wax Biology Center, Racine, Wis. These are the five principal varieties:

The black fly (smaller than the housefly but at least 25 times as tough).

The sand fly (so tiny it's sometimes called the "no-see-em," though you feel 'em soon enough).

The deerfly (including the marsh fly).

The stable fly (known as the dogfly in some regions: No bark but plenty of bite).

The horsefly (bigger but not necessarily better).

While a spray of insect repellent such as Off! may do well against mosquitos, biting flies are insistent enough to require the special formula of Deep Woods Off! which comes in both an aerosol and cream lotion.

EEL activities

Energy Management is not just a theme but a dedication, one to which the Electric Energy Institute directs all its efforts.

EEL activities which reflect this energy management position include:

—Brochures and buying guides which stress wise-use habits and are planned to affect the life styles of the homeowner. Some of the publications produced by EEL for these purposes are: "Guide To Wise Use Of Energy For Electric Heating And Cooling," "How To Use Your Electric Range For All It's Worth," "How To Avoid Unnecessary Service Calls On Your Electric Appliances," and guides to wise use of electric water heaters, ranges, washers, and dryers, and refrigerators and food freezers.

Also available is a handy reference guide to annual energy requirements of electric house hold appliances. All EEL brochures are available through local electric utilities.

—Articles in consumer magazines and newspapers conveying energy management techniques to the homeowner.

—Participation in trade shows such as those sponsored by the American Home Economics Association, America Institute of Architects, Building Owners and Managers Association, National Association of Home Builders, and other trade allies, where exhibits carrying the energy management theme are displayed. These exhibits are also available for member company use at local, state and regional events.

—Research into ways to improve energy management in the home.

—Cast studies which report on buildings that demonstrate optimum energy use in the design and operation of HVAC systems.

2NT bid is strong invitation

By Oswald & James Jacoby

In the language of bids, North's two notrump call is either an absolute, one-round force or a strong invitation for South to bid again.

It is a bid of one less than game.

South's three-diamond call conveys the message, "I don't have the number of high-card points I should have for my initial two-diamond response, nor do I have a running diamond suit. If you want to bid three notrump do so at your own risk."

Change North's hand so that his spades are headed by queen-jack and his jack of diamonds is the ace. He has the same distribution and the same 14 high-card points but he would know that his ace of diamonds may be the key to six or seven diamond tricks. He should bid three notrump.

As it is North realizes that diamonds are not going to run. While South may hold something in one of the unbid suits it is almost certain that he does not hold strength in both, so North passes.

Against a heart lead North would go down one trick at three notrump. He might bring it in against some other lead, but you expect your opponents to defend well and North and South should be happy when South brings his diamond partnership home.

Yogurt Bananas

Authentic East Indian, and delightfully cooling when served with a hot curry. 8-ounce container unflavored yogurt

Pinch of salt

1/2 teaspoon white pepper

1 1/2 teaspoons sugar

Large ripe banana

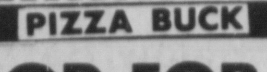

Stir together the yogurt, salt, pepper and sugar; chill. Just before serving, peel the banana and slice very thin; fold into yogurt mixture. Turn into a small attractive serving bowl and serve at once as a curry accompaniment.

Let's Talk About Decorating

By GLADYS WOLBER

The Focal Point Is A Must

Every well decorated room should have a decorative center of interest that catches the eye as one enters. You're lucky if your room has a natural focal point, such as a fireplace, around which to plan the arrangement of your furnishings. If you don't have a natural point of interest, you'll have to create one.

What can be used as the focal point of a room? How about a favorite painting? If you're centering your room around a painting, you can draw on its colors for the room's color theme. A wall mural can be a striking addition to a small room that's otherwise lacking in interest.

A colorful area accent rug placed beneath a conversational furniture grouping will create a fine interest center. A decorative mirror makes a good focal point and can also be used to add spaciousness to a room. A particularly prized piece of furniture, such as an unusual antique chest of drawers, can also serve as a decorative hub. A marvelous way to add interest to any room is to create a wall of paintings or prints.

Next time we'll talk about how to create a wall of interest with paintings or prints. In the meantime, if you're in the market for quality furnishings at reasonable prices, stop in and see us at Dunbar's.

Draft boards planning new system of registration

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Selective Service, sharply reduced in size, is busy planning its new method of registering men for the standby draft. The new method is a one-day affair each year for men who turned 18-years-old the previous year. The date for this year's crop of 18-year-olds hasn't been set yet but it probably will be early in 1976 on a day to be announced.

Draft Director Byron V. Pepitone said he hopes to enlist thousands of volunteers to help in the registration so there will be no tedious waiting in line by the young men for the brief sign-up process.

"We hope to have enough places and enough people to make it the least onerous as possible, so a man can just pop into a place nearby that he sees every day," Pepitone said.

Many of the two million young men turning 18 this year won't have to take part, however, because they had already signed up when President Ford issued his proclamation in April changing the system.

Before then, men were required to register during the period 30 days before and 30 days after their 18th birthday. The law still requires the Selective Service to register men, although the part of the law giving the president draft authority expired in 1973.

The change to a one-day registration is largely an economy move as Selective Service continues to reduce the size of its paid force and keep volunteer draft boards on a standby basis.

When the drafting of men halted in 1973, there were 8,000 paid Selective Service workers and 2,750 administrative offices requiring a $100 million annual budget. This was in addition to 30,000 volunteers.

In the fiscal year that ended this July, the paid force was reduced to 2,400 people and 626 administrative offices with a $47.5 million budget. Plans are to reduce these totals this year to 1,400 people, 130 offices and a $40 million budget, with more cuts next year.

The Selective Service now has a roll of 17,000 draft board members and 25,000 other volunteers to help with registration. Pepitone said he hopes this total will be larger when registration day rolls around.

Pepitone said he believes it would be a mistake to abolish the system entirely, as Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and some others want to do.

Since the president would have to go to Congress in an emergency to get his draft authority restored, Pepitone said, "We could crank up the system in 30 to 45 days, but if we had to start from scratch, it would take a minimum of six months."

The one-day registration is not entirely new. It was employed when the draft was revised before World War II and before the Korean conflict, but this involved people of more than one age.

In a column Pepitone is writing for his next newsletter to state and regional Selective Service officials this month, he will tell them:

"It is my contention that, with proper planning and attention to detail, we can arrange a convenient, easy and successful registration that will guarantee that the young men who have attained their 18th birthday during calendar year 1975 can, with rare exceptions, on a single day come to a designated place and be registered"

Pepitone said he will ask both paid draft workers and volunteers to put forth any suggestions.

In an interview, Pepitone said there will be some exceptions to the one-day sign-up, such as young men who are too ill or those who can't come because they are in jail.

Physical exams and mental tests for the draft were halted after the draft authority expired in 1974, but Pepitone said he has ordered another step-down.

Until now, the 19-year-olds who drew numbers 1 through 95 in the annual draft lottery were processed to form a pool of men in case the draft were resumed. This will be halted to further reduce the workload, he said.

But Pepitone said he plans to continue appointments to local draft boards to reduce the time required to reconstitute the boards in case of a crisis.

In addition to handling the standby draft, Pepitone is supervising the program of assigning men to public service jobs.

Walker defends budget for higher education

By SKIP WOLLENBERG
Associated Press Writer
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker says he has approved enough money for higher education to permit colleges and universities to give employees a pay raise while avoiding tuition increases.

Walker told a news conference Sunday he had trimmed higher education appropriations passed by the General Assembly by $52 million, giving the state's universities, colleges, community colleges and scholarship program $1.058 billion for the 1975-76 school year.

He said he used his reduction veto powers to cut the general fund amount for higher education by six per cent.

Walker said he made the cuts after consultation with university and Illinois Board of Higher Education officials. Although he reduced what he had proposed in March, Walker said every school will receive more money than they did in the last fiscal year.

"With the increased operating funds, state colleges and universities will be able to provide average pay increases of seven per cent to help bring university employees' pay levels closer to those of other state employees," he said.

Walker cannot order pay increases, but he said he would prefer that lower-paid employees receive higher percentage increases than well-paid administrators or professors.

Figures compiled earlier this year by the state comptroller's office showed more than 40,000 persons employed at Illinois educational institutions.

Walker had recommended in mid-June that the General Assembly cut his budget requests involving general revenue money by 6 per cent, to avoid a tax increase. But the legislature ignored his recommendation in many areas, and asked him to make the cuts.

The higher education budget includes $776.9 million for operations and grants, $49.7 million less than the legislature approved but $53.8 million more than the budget in fiscal 1975.

The capital budget approved by the governor is $281.8 million, a $2.2 million cut from the amount approved by the legislature but $100 million over the fiscal 1975 construction budget in higher education.

The legislature will return in October for a session in which they could override the governor's cuts.

The governor reduced the amount the legislature approved for community colleges by $9.3 million to $97.3 million. That figure, however, is $11.2 million more than they received in fiscal 1975.

Here are the governor's actions on operations and grants requests for each of the state universities:

—University of Illinois, $235.4 million (including $118.6 million for Champaign-Urbana, $43.1 million for Chicago Circle and $60.2 million for the Medical Center), a cut of $12.3 million from the legislative appropriation but $17 million more than in fiscal 1975.

—Southern Illinois University $96 million (including $66 million for Carbondale and $29.2 million for Edwardsville), a cut of $4.4 million from the legislative appropriation but $3.2 million more than in fiscal 1975.

—Illinois State, $36.3 million, a cut of $1.6 million from the legislative appropriation but $2.2 million more than in fiscal 1975.

—Northern Illinois, $45 million, a $2.7 million cut from the legislative appropriation but $1.6 million more than in fiscal 1975.

—Eastern Illinois, $18.3 million, a $1 million cut from the legislative appropriation but $310,000 more than in fiscal 1975.

—Western Illinois, $26.2 million, a $1.2 million cut from the legislative appropriation but $1.6 million more than in fiscal 1975.

State resisting pressure to increase unemployment benefits

By WILLIAM PRATER
Associated Press Writer

Despite nation-wide pressure to increase unemployment compensation benefits, many legislatures in 21 states surveyed by the Associated Press have resisted, citing declining funds and reluctance to increase business taxes.

Where benefits have been increased, legislatures are trying to keep from raising employer taxes, and the Unemployment Insurance Fund in many states is rapidly being depleted.

The lowest benefits among the states surveyed were in Indiana, where a single person without dependents can collect $60 a week after a one-week waiting period. An additional $10 a week is paid for each dependent, to a maximum of $100. Texas offers only $63 a week, without dependent allowance. An attempt to raise that to $70 was defeated by the legislature this spring.

In Indiana, the governor and both parties backed an increase in benefits, but the split came over how much. Democrats sought an increase to $124 and abolishment of the one-week waiting period. Republicans wanted the increase kept to $10.

The same sort of conflict has gone on in legislatures across the nation. Labor interests have made improved jobless benefits an integral part of their lobbying, while business groups are allied in opposition.

In Illinois, where the General Assembly this spring approved one of the highest benefit packages in the country, the same sort of arguments raged.

Debating the bill which raised benefits for workers with dependents to $135 a week, Rep. Daniel Lee, R-Elmhurst, declared: "Passage of this bill represents the closing of the curtain on the businesses of the state."

But Senate President Cecil A. Partee, D-Chicago, noted, "We're talking about people who need help when they're unemployed. Industry thinks we're out to destroy them and they should know better. Labor doesn't think we're doing enough."

The new Illinois statute provides staggered benefits — from a minimum of $92 for a single worker without benefits — and eliminates a traditional one-week waiting period if a worker is off more than four weeks.

But Illinois and Indiana were the only states with such staggered payments. Others have single-rate payments based on percentage of average earnings or set by statute.

What is being sought in most states in addition to dollar increases is elimination of the one-week waiting period. Illinois now allows workers to receive that week's benefits after being off at least four weeks. Kentucky, Nevada, Texas and Minnesota offer similar allowances.

In several states, one of them Iowa, there has been pressure to increase unemployment compensation as a percentage of average weekly wages. The governor is expected to sign legislation upping benefits from 55 per cent of average wages to 66.7 per cent.

Out-of-work Iowans would begin collecting about $107 a month, swelling the cost of the program about $9.7 million a year. Under existing statutes, this would trigger tax hikes of up to 3.5 per cent for employers. A companion bill to the one raising benefits removes that statutory requirement, but adds a special one-year employer tax to keep the system solvent.

The legislation also would lengthen the time a worker can collect from 26 weeks to 39 weeks in time of high unemployment, a program subsidized 50 per cent by the federal government.

Because of swelling jobless rolls, the Unemployment Insurance Funds of some states are in much worse financial shape than Iowa's.

The federally administered unemployment insurance is financed through an employers' tax that can vary from state to state.

Some of these funds are depleted and others may go broke by the end of the year.

New Jersey issues out-of-work citizens $90 a week, but its insurance fund has been insolvent since January. The fund had borrowed $235 million by mid-June and state officials anticipate needing more.

Commissioner of Labor and Industry Joseph A. Hoffman, in testimony before Congress, urged a system under which the federal government would pick up half the cost of unemployment insurance payments when a state's jobless rate was more than six per cent for 12 months consecutively. New Jersey's unemployment is over 11 per cent.

California, which pays $90 a week, has similar problems, though its fund is still solvent. The Unemployment Insurance Fund had a balance of $1.153 billion at the beginning of the year, said Jim Lorenz, director of California's Employment Development Department. It is expected to be down to about $520 million at year's end.

"The record-breaking number of unemployment claims filed is expected to increase payouts from the fund from $1.36 to more than $1.5 billion," he said. "The fund is solvent through the calendar year 1975, but all indications are that additional income will be needed to maintain solvency of the fund through the end of 1976."

The state's unemployment rate is over 10 per cent.

In Nevada, where unemployment is running over 10 per cent, the insurance fund has been declared insolvent, down to its last $14 million. The state Employment Security Department says it may have to borrow up to $8 million by early 1976 because funds will be totally depleted.

Lawmakers rejected a proposal to up Nevada's benefits from $85 maximum to $102. But they deleted a section of Utah law which required the maximum unemployment benefit to drop to $20 a week once the unemployment fund dips below $8.5 million.

Today in History

By The Associated Press
Today is Tuesday, July 15, the 196th day of 1975. There are 169 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1945, Italy declared war on Japan, its former Axis partner in World War II.

On this date:
In 1606, the Dutch artist, Rembrandt van Rijn, was born in Leiden.

In 1870, Georgia became the last of the Confederate states to be readmitted to the Union.

In 1789, France's King Louis XVI was awakened at 2 a.m. and told that his authority had collapsed with the fall of the Bastille in the French Revolution.

In 1918, in World War I, American troops attacked German positions at Chateau-Thierry in France.

In 1948, a Democratic National Convention in Philadelphia nominated President Harry Truman for a second term.

In 1958, President Dwight Eisenhower ordered 3,500 U.S. Marines to Lebanon during a Middle East crisis.

Ten years ago: The U.S. Mariner IV spacecraft sent to earth the first close-up photograph of the planet Mars.

Five years ago: Dock workers in Britain began the first nationwide dock strike in that country in 44 years.

Lee A. Greer, 18, Sterling, was arrested Monday afternoon on a charge of possession of marijuana.

Greer was picked up at the Dixon State School, where he was employed, by the state school security force. The marijuana was found on his person.

Greer is being held in jail pending a court appearance today.

Century-old letter on display in Post Office

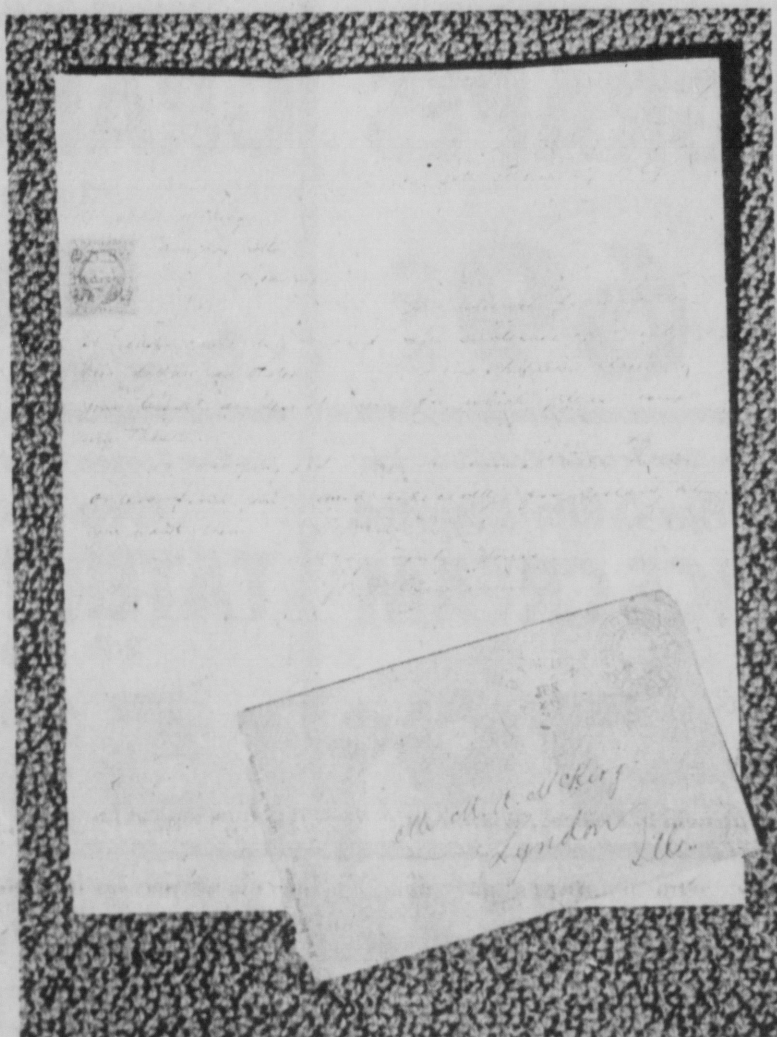

More than 100 years ago, a letter was written concerning a business transaction between a Dixon man and a man believed to be a resident of Lyndon. Whether the letter was delivered or not is another story, but today the letter and original envelope are on display at the Dixon Post Office.

Francis Loomis, Dixon postmaster, is shown above placing the letter, dated March 27, 1867, and its envelope dated June 26, 1897, on display in a glass case at the postal facility.

The letter, shown at right, was addressed to W. A. McKing and was written by George Benjamin of Dixon. Although some of the handwriting is difficult to read, it appears the letter concerns a money order request on a business transaction concerning collars. The transaction must have been a formal business deal or written like a document because of the two-cent Internal Revenue Stamp placed near the head of the letter. According to Loomis, on special documents in the 1800's the Internal Revenue Stamp was used greatly.

Loomis got the letter for the display from David Pickering. Pickering, an employee of the local Driver's License Examining Station, believes the letter was written to one of his relatives.

Rochelle Council votes for city ambulance plan

ROCHELLE—After two years of controversy, the Rochelle City Council Monday night voted down Mayor Bill Cipolla's proposal for a private ambulance service for the city.

In a 4-1 decision, the council denied the proposal that would have awarded the ambulance contract to Don Horner, owner of the Unger Funeral Home, Rochelle. Instead, the city's fire department will now provide the service.

Horner maintained that the fire department's cost estimates were too low and, along with Cipolla, claimed that the funeral home would actually be able to provide cheaper service, even though the fire department's bid was lower.

Despite the arguments, the council decided in favor of the city-operated service, which will now hire another man to complete its ambulance crew. The department currently has seven men who have completed emergency medical training, and more are expected to qualify this fall.

The council also decided to allow Warner TV Cable a 40 percent rate increase, providing that service and reception are upgraded as scheduled within the next 90 days. In addition, a bid of $30,908.05 was accepted from the Glaze Construction Co., Rochelle, for street work on Avenue E and Wood Street.

Introduced for public inspection was the 1975 appropriations ordinance, totalling $9,416,620. This marks an increase of $13,980 over last year's budget. The council also voted to allow 60-minute parking on Washington Street between the two railroad tracks.

In addition, the city code was modified by the council to allow six-foot fences in the city. The previous limit was five feet.

In other action, the council announced it will advertise for bids on four items: a transformer for the electrical department, a carload of utility poles, a one-ton truck with both cab and chassis, and aerial baskets and a utility body. All bids are due by Aug. 15.

Survivors include five sons, Ernest, Bartlett, Clifford, Rice Lake, Wis.; Ervin, Chicago; Dewayne, Mt. Morris, and Robert, Sioux City, Iowa, and three daughters, Mrs. Gertrude Eckhardt and Mrs. Dorothy Sandusky, both of Rochelle, and Mrs. Warren (Joyce) Birken, Sycamore.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Cluts Funeral Home, Rochelle.

Set date for budget hearing

ASHTON—Members of Ashton School Board set September 8 for a public hearing on the school budget. The date was set at the regular meeting of the board, Monday night.

Superintendent Richard L. McCannon was delegated by the board to prepare a tentative budget for public display by Aug. 7.

In other action the board set textbook rental fees at $13 per student and $6.50 for kindergarteners. Activity tickets will cost the students $4. Insurance for kindergarteners through sixth grade students for the coming year was set at $3 with a $5 figure for insurance for seventh through 12th grade students. Registration for the 1975-76 school year will be Aug. 19 and 20 with school scheduled to open Aug. 26.

A meeting of the school board has been scheduled July 24 to negotiate teachers' salaries.

Accused in forgery

Paula Ryan, 19, 523 Depot Ave., was arrested by police on a forgery charge Monday.

She is accused of illegally endorsing a $625 insurance check belonging to Steven Briggs. Briggs lives in the apartment above Ryan's residence. It is believed that Ryan intercepted the check June 9 and cashed it at City National Bank.

Ryan was arrested at the Lee County Jail where she is being held on other forgery charges.

Held after disturbance

Edward Garrett, 20, Nelson, was arrested Monday afternoon following a disturbance in Nelson.

Garrett was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting a police officer. He was subdued by Nelson officer Elmer Collins and Deputy Conan Cox of the Lee County Sheriff's office.

Garrett is being held in jail. He is to be arraigned today.

$300 fine and probation

Kevin Johnson, 19, 324 Central Place, was fined $300 and placed on probation for one year by Associate Judge Martin D. Hill Monday.

Summer school proves fun for children in Head Start program

By JUDY SCHMIDT
POLO—Summer school can be fun?? It sure can if you're 4 years old, going to kindergarten next fall and attending any of the Head Start programs in the area.

The children in Debbie Jontz's class at Congress School in Polo think it's a great way to spend their summer, arriving at eight o'clock sharp for a full morning of games, music, arts and crafts, movies, learning about numbers and letters and getting along with other kids.

The first half hour is spent in free play, then it's off to the cafeteria for a large breakfast of cereal, juice, fruit and peanut butter toast, or pancakes, eggs or whatever else cook Mable Graham has prepared for them.

Mabel, who lives in Polo, does all the shopping at a local supermarket for breakfast and snack periods, plans the menus for the week, and cooks, serves and cleans up with the help of her daughter, Linda.

The kids really clean up their plates, with a little encouragement and a promise of a somersault demonstration by "Miss Debbie."

After breakfast, they return to the classroom, wash and brush their teeth and settle down to a craft or art project. This ranges from making hand puppets to costumes out of brown paper bags that they cut, decorate and wear themselves.

Undercover in a sack costume, some with an arm protruding where an eyeball should be, usually prompts much giggling, snarling, growling and attempts to terrify the teacher or Lena Sherman, a teacher's aide.

If the weather permits, the class continues activities outside in the playground, swinging, sliding, "painting" with water on the cement, or just soaking in the sun.

Debbie and Lena's Head Start class is small, presently only 14 students, so it's not difficult to give each child individual attention.

The teachers stress manners and common courtesy, among other sociable attitudes. The main purpose of all Head Start programs is to help children mature socially and acceptably so they can function in a group when they enter a regular school system.

Head Start originated about 10 years ago, in order to give a learning experience to preschool children of low-income families. As the program grew in popularity, it spread out from the big cities to encompass the suburbs and smaller towns.

Guidelines were revised so that others could qualify, depending on a family's situation, the amount of children, some types of handicaps or other unusual circumstances.

Tri-County Opportunities Council in Sterling funds the entire program here in conjunction with the area County Health Department and the State Department of Health.

This includes 10 schools in seven cities in the area.

Children are eligible to come to Polo from Milledgeville and Mt. Morris. Oregon has its own program, as well as Dixon, Sterling, Amboy, Rochelle and Rock Falls.

There is a weekly allotment for food, depending on enrollment and a large assortment of condiments such as peanut butter, dry milk, cheeses, canned fruits and frozen juices, are supplied at the beginning of the school sessions.

Other benefits include physical examinations, immunizations and dental work if necessary. Barb Eubanks, Polo, is the visiting nurse for all the towns and, despite the fact that she gives shots, the kids are always glad to see her.

Another regular visitor is Marcy DeWierd, who comes in to work with the children needing speech therapy or just to observe a classroom for signs of any sight, hearing or emotional problems.

Marcy then contacts the parents and helps refer them for proper treatment.

Lena helped as an aide last year at Congress and Debbie has had experience with Head Start since its infancy and she has been teaching in the Polo public school system for more than a year.

Her job with Head Start also takes her out of the classroom, making home visits with the parents and on many field trips with her group.

On a day when the kids aren't involved in movies, stories, numbers or monster masks, they may find themselves at a museum, a picnic, a carnival, a police station to ride in the squad car, or a circus in Dixon.

Whatever the event, the people involved agree on several things. Head Start is learning. Head Start is saying please and thank you. Head Start is fun!

Becky Brooks appears delighted that swinging is part of going to school on the Head Start program. (Telegraph Photo)

Senior Party Line

This column is a response to the many inquiries received at the Senior Action Center regarding legislation in the spring 1975 session of the Illinois General Assembly. The following bills relating to senior citizens and disabled persons have passed both houses as of July 1. They have not, however, been signed into law as yet. Next week's column will be the second part of this special legislative report.

Homestead Exemption

House Bill 751 lowers the qualifying age for the homestead exemption from 65 to 64. Under current law, a home owner must be 65 on Jan. 1 in order to receive the exemption for that tax year. Because property taxes are not actually paid until the following year, many seniors are not receiving the benefits of this law until they are 66 or 67. The homestead exemption, administered through the county assessor's office, allows for a $1,500 reduction in the assessed valuation of property for seniors, meaning a tax reduction of about $80 per year.

House Bill 1551 states that when a property which has qualified for the homestead exemption undergoes a change in ownership, a certificate of change must be filed with the supervisor of assessments but need not be notarized.

A third bill relating to the homestead exemption was passed by the Senate but was held up in the House. Senate Bill 452 would increase the exemption from $1,500 to $2,000—meaning a reduction in the average tax bill of about $30. This bill has been placed on the Fall Calendar and will be considered when the legislature returns in October.

Circuit Breaker

House Bill 2132 would allow senior citizens and disabled persons to apply for, and receive, "circuit breaker" tax relief grants earlier in the year. Eligible home owners may not apply now until May or June, when they receive their property tax notices. This bill would enable them to file an application immediately after the first of the year, using the property tax paid the previous year instead.

Of course, all seniors and disabled persons in Illinois should be aware that a major tax-relief program was passed by the legislature early in the session and was signed into law in late April. That bill provided an additional $34 million in tax relief by expanding the regular circuit breaker cash grants for renters, and by creating a new program of additional "sales tax" relief grants of $50 to $100. Seniors and disabled persons with annual incomes of less than $10,000 should fill out an application form as soon as possible.

Recreation

House Bill 585 provides for free hunting and fishing licenses for senior citizens (65 and older) and for permanently disabled persons. Seniors right now may buy fishing licenses at a reduced rate of 50 cents and hunting licenses at a discount for $1.25, but handicapped persons must currently pay the full price of $2.25 and $3.25, respectively. This bill would eliminate the necessity of paying any fees.

Two bills which cleared the legislature provide special advantages to seniors who enjoy the outdoors. House Bill 959 would allow seniors (aged 65 and older), as well as blind and disabled persons, to use the tent and trailer camping facilities of the state Department of Conservation without charge. Senate Bill 419 would allow 50 percent discounts on admission fees to overnight camping facilities for all residents aged 62 or older. Both of these bills are attempts to initiate in Illinois state parks and recreational facilities a program similar to the "Golden Age Passport" issued by the National Park Service for national parks, monuments and historic sites.

Voting Rights

House Bill 1617 establishes and clarifies the voting privileges of residents of skilled nursing homes. Under current law, patients in hospitals and mental institutions are—as far as voting purposes are concerned—not considered to be residents or legal voters of the election district in which the hospital or mental institution is located. This bill would enable residents of skilled nursing homes to vote in the election district in which the nursing facility is located, thus making voting more accessible and convenient to them.

This legislative report will be continued in next week's column.

Persons may call the toll-free Senior Action Hotline 800-252-6565 with questions or complaints about government agencies or programs or for information about tax relief, health care, food stamps, Social Security, employment, housing or legal aid.

In Dixon persons may call the Lee County Council for Aging 288-2117.

Program for campers at Lowden

Lowden Park's summer interpretive program has been underway for five weeks now. A wide variety of activities is provided for campers. People of all ages are invited to take part.

Interpretive nature hikes are taken to places of special interest. Crafts, including candle dipping, leather work, and pottery making, are offered.

On Saturday nights, movies are shown. Of course, some quiet time is set aside for fishing. Between activities, the Visitors Center is open for browsing and enjoying nature and craft displays.

There will be a special program at the park on Friday. Dick Leitz of Oregon and his group will give an outdoor concert. This program is primarily meant to entertain campers, but is open to all interested members of the public. There will be no charge—this is a service of the park.

Walnut artist is winner at Summerfest

Roger Shule, Walnut, won the best of show award at the Summerfest '75 art show held in connection with the Tampico Centennial. The show is sponsored by the Sauk Valley Arts Council.

Other area winners were Rita Groth, Polo, first place in realistic oils and abstract acrylics; Connie Livingston, Polo, first place in abstract oils; Kevin McLaughlin, Dixon, second place in abstract acrylics and merit award in mixed media; Susan Devine, Dixon, second place in graphics.

Sponsors of the awards included the First Federal Savings and Loan Association, Dixon, and the Sublette State Bank.

Judging the show was Steven Klindt, director of the Galesburg Art Center.

Singer Sonny James to appear at Monroe fair

MONROE — Sonny James will bring his southern charm and versatile singing talents to the 121st annual Green County Fair to be held in Monroe, Wis., July 23 through 27.

Sonny, who headlines an impressive list of entertainers at this year's fair, will be featured with his country western show in the amphitheatre at two shows Saturday night, scheduled for 7 and 9 p.m.

He has consistently ranked at the top of entertainment in country and folk music. Starting with his multi-million seller "Young Love," Sonny's string of hits has been phenomenal. His consistent string of records, 27 No. 1 records in a row, is practically unheard of. And the major national popularity polls find each year that he either leads or is in the top five.

The famous Jolee Chitwood Thrill Show is another of the featured attractions at the fair. Billed as "the greatest show on wheels," Chitwood and his group of daredevil drivers have planned 21 thrilling stunts in one action-packed show at 8 p.m. Friday.

Chitwood, a legend in his own time when it comes to providing excitement with autos and cycles, brings his top drivers to the fairgrounds to perform everything from roll-overs to a rocket car leap.

The men who sat behind the wheels during the daring chase and crash scenes in the James Bond thriller "Live and Let Die" are the same ones who will be driving at the Green County Fair. During the filming of that movie, the Chitwood crew managed to demolish 14 new cars and eight airplanes.

The finest harness racing in southern Wisconsin will be back again this year with races planned for 1:30 p.m. Saturday and 1 p.m. Sunday.

Two hours of "crashing, thrilling" demolition derby get underway at 4 and 8 p.m. Sunday. Every car is totally destroyed with a driver in it during this auto and thrill event for which cash prizes are awarded.

Wednesday, the opening day of the fair, is Family Day, with the fair gates swinging open at 1 p.m. The Green County 4-H Club Program will begin the festivities in the fair amphitheatre at 7:30 p.m., followed by a new local attraction, the fun-filled Betty Elmer Show.

A double-feature program has been arranged for Thursday at 8 p.m. The Flowers Family Musical Variety Show will offer music, dancing and singing, featuring instrumental numbers using 15 different instruments, comedy, and good, wholesome entertainment for the entire family.

Joining the Flowers Family will be Alex Houston, world-famous ventriloquist, and "Elmer," direct from "Hee-Haw" television fame.

Something really special for kids of all ages will be featured Friday afternoon as a treat for Kid's Day. The Trolley Marionettes will provide a ride down the boulevards of vaudeville, silent films, circus, country music and comedy. Three big shows have been planned, at 1, 2 and 3 p.m. Because it is Kid's Day Friday at the fair, children will be given reduced prices on rides from noon to 5 p.m.

Badger State Shows will be featured on the midway with 18 exciting rides and many concessions.

To be assured of a seat for all shows, tickets should be ordered now for reserved seats. Charge is $2 per seat per show for all the shows and checks or money orders may be sent to Allan B. Holtzapple, Amphitheatre Superintendent, P.O. Box 213, Monroe, Wis. 53566.

3 jailed in burglary

OREGON—Three persons were being held in Ogle County jail today following their arrest Monday in connection with a July 11 burglary at the Winford Kyker residence, four miles east of Woosung.

Charged were Patrick A. Doyle, 17, and George E. Doyle, 22, both of Oregon and Curtis E. Beauchamp, 43, Rt. 1 Dixon. All were being held under $5,000 bond.

Ogle County Sheriff's Deputies were called to the farmhouse by Kyker after he returned home and spotted a house door open. Kyker said he saw two persons run into a cornfield.

Approximately $500 in tools had been loaded into a wheelbarrow and taken a short distance from the home where they were left, deputies said.

Following investigation, arrest warrants were issued for the trio. A court appearance was scheduled for today.

Ogle Grand Jury to meet Thursday

OREGON—State's Atty. Peter J. Woods has called a special session of the Ogle County Grand Jury to convene Thursday in the Courthouse. Woods said he would present evidence against 19 persons accused of felonies in the past month. The session was expected to last one day.

Sights and scenes of 'The White Pines Ranch'

By JUDY SCHMIDT

Five hundred acres of fresh air and "free to be me" atmosphere. A dude in dungarees. Horses and hayrides. Rodeos and ribbons. A city slicker roughed up. A square meal. A bed in the bunkhouse.

Only a slight composite of Dick and Dee Littles' White Pines dude ranch in Oregon.

Passing through the wide wooden archway of the main entrance, a visitor's impression is immediately transposed to the ways of the West.

A large paddock on the left corrals a group of competitive youngsters on horseback, obviously enjoying each other, and practicing for the weekly Friday-night rodeo.

Following a demonstration by the ranch hands, they then compete in four events of the rodeo, some of which are regular gymkhana activities, requiring skill in speed and maneuvers. Awards and ribbons are presented to the most proficient horseback riders.

The hub of activity converges in and around the "ranch house," a rugged and unpretentious two-story structure, inviting, with the warmth of wood and an open fireplace.

Inside, the recreation room inspires a game of pool, pinball or a number of individual interests.

For the first day or two, some dudes prefer a cloistered effect and seek out the inconspicuous corners but, with a little prompting from one of the counselors, soon fall into the swing of things.

Guests at the ranch range in age from 8 to 18 so a mild case of homesickness is a common ailment.

Two pianos in the ranch house provide entertainment for the musically inclined and informal seating arrangements throughout the room make comfortable conversation centers.

Casually draped on a couch or chair, the young people may develop friendships that carry on long after their vacation is over.

The dining-room tables appropriately sport red and white checked tablecloths and are heaped high at meal-time with a delicious selection of food that is served buffet style.

Darlene Jones, Oregon, has cooked the meals there for the last four years and makes certain that there is plenty to appease all the hungry ranch hands plus an average of 100 visiting dudes a week.

There are thirty-six employees to oversee an abundance of horses, cows, pigs, cats, dogs and kids. Eight years ago, when Dick and Dee first undertook the ambitious venture of running a dude ranch, they accommodated only twelve and did most of the work themselves.

Back in 1959 when they opened for horseback riding and hayrides they owned 282 beautiful acres of land. Since then they have been able to lease additional land, giving them the use of about 500 acres for hiking, exploring, picnicking and trail riding.

Now, besides the ranch house, which also contains the kitchen and offices on the main level and two huge dormitory bedrooms upstairs, complete with bathrooms and laundry facilities, there is the bunk house with more dorms, a couple of apartments and additional rooms that are kept for meetings or art and craft projects.

The stable is home to seventy-five ranch horses including Squirr, a lugubrious-looking Shetland pony, resembling Eeyore, of storybook fame.

There are also a cattle shed and machine shop on the premises and all these facilities are open to their guests.

Visitors are briefed on horsemanship but some enjoy getting a real equestrian education, taking full advantage to learn all they can about horses during their stay.

In addition to the rodeo there are scheduled, guided trail rides two or three times a day, a hayride another evening with a watermelon feast, bonfire and sing-a-long, accompanied by guitars.

Some of the dudes are a little horse shy and transfer their pleasure to swimming in the built-in pool where competition is as keen as the rodeo.

Others take their pleasure in just feeling the wide, open spaces, exuberant and unencumbered and exhilarated by cloudless skies and Mother Earth.

Sunlight filtering through miles of pine-clustered hills sets the scene for a long list of memories.

Dick Little knows the memories last at least a year because they always want to come back.

The trend being what it is today, the White Pines ranch appears to be another popular way of getting back to nature.

Warning against grain bins

Grain bins can be a death trap, warns "Wallace Farmer," the nation's leading rural magazine. Every year a number of people drown in grain bins. Most of these accidents occur because victims climb into a bin while it is being unloaded. They are sucked into the grain and disappear in seconds. Death usually occurs from suffocation.

Never enter a grain bin while the bottom unloading auger is removing grain, never permit children to play around or in bins. A child can also become buried in grain being unloaded from a wagon. Provide grab-bars, ladders, suspended knotted rope, or other safety devices within the bin that a victim can grab to save himself from being engulfed in flowing grain.

"Wallace's Farmer" is a Leisure Group I publication of American Broadcasting Companies, Inc.

Henert wins Ag award

Craig G. Henert, Ashton, will receive an Agricultural Communications Scholarship during his sophomore year at the University of Illinois in 1975-76.

The scholarship is sponsored by CIBA-GEIGY Corp., Greensboro, N.C., for an Illinois youth who shows interest in agricultural communications and outstanding promise for contribution to that career field.

During the next three years, Henert will complete a program that includes course work in agricultural advertising, public relations, writing and editing, radio and television broadcasting, and photography. The agricultural communications study program is offered jointly by the Colleges of Agriculture and Communications.

A 1974 graduate of Ashton High School, Henert is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity at the University. He works as a copywriter for WPGU radio, Champaign, and writes for the College of Agriculture's Student News and Information Bureau. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Burnell Henert.

The judging of projects in the Exhibit Building will start at 1 p.m. on July 31. All projects in the Exhibit Building must be in place by 11 a.m. on July 31, according to Co-Chairmen Mrs. John Heckman, Polo; Mrs. Doug Pettigrew, Oregon, and Mrs. James Sura, Oregon. 4-H Livestock Judging will also be held on Friday, Aug. 1.

All committees will be placing pens and stalls on July 30. Livestock will be admitted after 2 p.m., July 31.

The Dog Judging will be held at 1:30 p.m. on July 31. The Dairy Judging will start at 9 a.m., August 1, according to Dennis Wubben, Forreton, dairy superintendent. John Buford, Orangeville, will be the official judge.

Swine Judging will begin at 8:30 a.m., Aug. 1, according to Les Greenfield, Forreton, swine superintendent. Lynn Liabe, Washburn, will be the judge.

Other judging on Aug. 1 is Poultry at 9:30 a.m.

The Aug. 1 afternoon program will begin at 1:30 for the horses. Mrs. Bruce Jacobson, Byron, horse superintendent, says that Diana Leifheit, DeKalb, will judge the Horse and Pony Division.

Other judging that day is the Rabbit Division at 1:30 p.m. Richard Meyer is superintendent of this division and has Richard Otten of Oregon for the judge.

According to Dawn Hayenga, 4-H Federation president, July 31 evening will be the teen dance and coronation of the 1975 Ogle County 4-H King and Queen.

George Glendenning Jr., superintendent of the Quality Meats Division says that the beef, swine, and sheep carcasses that will be on display during the 4-H Show will be auctioned off to the highest bidders at 1 p.m. Aug. 3, during the Beef Show.

Activities on Aug. 3 will begin early with beef judging at 8:30 a.m., by Charles Bickelhaupt of Mt. Carroll followed at 9 a.m.

Extension advisor discusses profits

By M. T. BARLASS
Lee County Extension Advisor
Our competitive society dictates that we must make a profit to stay in business, but few people have a guarantee of a profit when they start out on a business venture.

Profits have long been a highly controversial subject. We have heard some speakers include the making of profits as a high crime along with robbery, rape, and murder. In contrast, other persons view profits as essential to the efficient production of food and other necessities of human life, and to the preservation of personal freedom. Such a wide difference of opinion surely reflects a lack of knowledge about the amount of profits earned by farmers, other small businesses, and corporations, and by the role of profits in our economy.

In years past, several surveys of public opinion showed that most citizens believed the profits of businesses to be much greater than they really were. The most recent report on this subject revealed no improvement in public understanding about this important topic.

More than 1,200 representative adults were asked to give their opinion about the average after-tax profits of manufacturers, oil corporations, and auto companies. The average estimate for the profits of manufacturers was 33 cents, or 33 percent of each dollar of sales. That was more than six times the actual profit figure. Profits of oil companies were estimated at 61 percent, more than eight times the actual return; and the profits of auto manufacturers were believed to be 39 percent of sales, more than twenty times the actual percentage.

Furthermore, the public has a poor understanding of the nature of profits. Contrary to major opinion, profits are not a measure of income to individuals or families (or even to corporations). Businesses must calculate and report "profits" in order to comply with tax laws. Uncle Sam has first claims on profits, and usually demands nearly half of the total. Second in line is the company need for cash with which to replace inventories as well as worn-out obsolete facilities. The remainder is paid to the shareholders as dividends.

During the three years 1972-1974 the total profits of corporations averaged $121 billion a year. Of that amount, $20 billion was a "paper" profit — the effect of inflation on the prices on products in inventory. Uncle Sam, the first claimant, demanded $49 billion. Some $42 billion was used to replace depleted inventories and worn-out and obsolete facilities, and for expansion. About $30 billion was distributed as dividends to shareholders. Wages, salaries, and other payments to employees averaged $783 billion per year.

How do shareholders spend the money they receive? That depends largely on their income level. Most of those in the higher income brackets reinvest their money in private business or lend it to public agencies to build schools and other essential projects. Most of those in lower income brackets, typically retired couples and widows, spend a large part of their dividends for food, health services, and other essentials.

How are profits related to personal freedom? A little thought about that subject reveals that in nations where there are no profits, there is no personal freedom. The individual has no freedom to choose his employer — because there is only one employer, the government. There is little freedom to choose one's place of residence, or to buy a home. Students from lands of no profits tell us that young couples often must live with in-laws for five, ten, or fifteen years while waiting for a tiny apartment.

1st welder in space on crew

MOSCOW (AP) — Valery N. Kubasov, the silent partner of the Soviet team planning to join Americans in orbit July 17, has the distinction of being the first welder in space.

Kubasov, a civilian engineer, managed to melt and merge several strips of metal with a nonflaming welder in the Soyuz 6 spacecraft in 1969, with the aim of eventually building a space station in orbit.

The station was never built and the experiment went down in the books as a morsel of space exoticia which may come in handy some day, but for Kubasov the engineer his feat was a great source of pride.

He is a man known for getting totally absorbed in the intricate nuts and bolts of cosmic mechanics — a valuable complement to the partner who will command the ship, Col. Alexei Leonov.

In many ways, the 40-year-old Kubasov and 41-year-old Leonov seem to be archetypal opposites in personality: Kubasov is retiring and serious, his partner effusive and jocular; Kubasov is pensive and nearly expressionless, his partner quick-witted and animated; Kubasov is slow moving, his partner hurried.

At news conferences, Leonov fairly bubbles over with levity and enthusiasm, while Kubasov fades into the background, occasionally smiling at his comrade's antics. But when it comes to explaining a fine point of celestial mechanics or space-ship design, Leonov defers to his partner, who reels off facts and terminology as if reciting from a space encyclopedia.

One of Kubasov's few concessions to expressiveness is a proclivity for singing. But his voice quality has been questioned. Fellow cosmonaut Georgy Shonin told reporters after spending four days in space with Kubasov in Soyuz 6, "When Valery Nikolayevich broke into song, I broke into laughter."

Kubasov himself says he finds toying with mathematical calculations more relaxing than singing. The son of a steamship mechanic in the small river town of Vyazniki not far from Moscow, Kubasov said his childhood was spent in "the world of nuts, bolts and wheels."

Dreaming of flying throughout his youth, Kubasov entered the Moscow Aviation Institute without having to take entrance examinations because of exceptional aptitude, according to his official biography.

Shortly before he graduated, the first Sputnik was launched into orbit in 1957 and the young Kubasov's vision immediately soared beyond the clouds of conventional aviation.

As a mechanical engineer he joined the design team headed by academician Sergei Korolev, who developed the first Soviet space rocket systems.

As space technology grew more complicated, engineers began to be recruited in the early 1960s to share flights with military-trained pilots, and Kubasov was among those chosen.

He was a member of back-up crews on Soyuz 4 and 5.

BIG TWO of the Apollo-Soyuz mission, U.S. commander Thomas P. Stafford, left, and Soviet commander Alexei A. Leonov are holders of several space firsts. Leonov took the first space walk on the Voskhod II mission in 1965. The same year, Stafford participated in the first space rendezvous, Gemini 6 and 7, and made the first orbit of the moon, Apollo 10 in 1969.

Wife asks cosmonaut to be more serious

By LYNNE OLSON
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The wife of cosmonaut Alexei Leonov has given her husband a few words of advice about his behavior during the Apollo-Soyuz space flight.

"Please be more serious, particularly during TV sessions," the commander of the Soyuz craft says his wife told him.

As the wittiest and most outgoing member of the Soyuz-Apollo crews, the 41-year-old Leonov undoubtedly will provide some moments of levity when Americans and Soviets meet in space for the first time.

But behind the ready laugh and quick quip, there is a serious, dedicated veteran of 15 years in the Soviet space program and the first man ever to walk in space.

Sergei Korolev, chief designer of the first space rocket systems, said Leonov's main characteristics are his keen mind, his good knowledge of technology and "his excellent character."

Korolev added, "He is a good mixer, a very kind man with great appeal. He deserves the highest trust."

On March 18, 1965, Leonov made history by climbing out of his Voskhod 2 spacecraft and floating in space for 12 minutes.

"I felt no fear," Leonov recalled. "There was no emotional stress."

That 26-hour Voskhod journey has been the balding, muscular cosmonaut's only space mission. "I have dreamt all the time of a new flight," he said. Apollo-Soyuz will make that dream come true.

Leonov, known as Lyosha to his friends and family, was born in the Siberian village of Listvyanka on May 30, 1934, the eighth of nine children.

At the age of 19, he entered a military flying school near the Ukrainian city of Kharkov and became a fighter pilot. Seven years later, he was named to the elite first group of cosmonauts, which included Yuri Gagarin, the first man to fly in space.

According to the Soviet news agency Tass, Leonov almost washed out of the cosmonaut program when he failed to pass a critical training maneuver because of illness. But his cosmonaut friends persuaded officials to give him another try, and he passed with flying colors.

Leonov lives with his wife, Svetlana, a teacher, and their two daughters, Viktoria, 14, and Oksana, 8, in an apartment in Star City, the Soviet space training center near Moscow.

A large easel, a gift from Gagarin, stands in one room. Leonov, a member of the Soviet artists' union, has been painting since boyhood. His works, featuring his impressions of space, have been exhibited throughout the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

The former illustrator of a satiric newspaper for his fellow spacemen, Leonov plans to use his talent for caricature during the Apollo-Soyuz mission by sketching his U.S. colleagues.

"Americans, like Russians, love humor, and I think that my jests will be to their liking," he says.

For two years, Leonov has earnestly studied English in order to communicate with his American counterparts.

Although he still is not completely fluent, his facility in English is generally better than the Americans' Russian.

A comical look at space shot

Spaceship from another planet would be stunned by TV talk

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — If all goes well, the Apollo and Soyuz spacecraft will be orbiting the earth today. Let us hope their crews can check out alarming reports another spacecraft has been transmitting.

That ship, from another planet, has been monitoring life on earth, using its sensors to see what gives. Alas, the sensors only have picked up TV signals. This is some of what the ship has reported home so far:

"Warp Date 12: The earthlings are religious. They have gods called Kojak, Dingbat, Hondo, Carson. There also is a sub-god called Seavreid who puts things into a perspective. What is a perspective?"

"Warp Date 14: Humanoids have a passion for messages. They often say, 'We'll be right back after this message.' Then come many messages. During this time, we hear sounds of feet going to the kitchen."

"Warp Date 17: Recently monitored a message about some god called Aspirin. His servants appear very much like us in that they have little hammers in their heads. This is a promising sign."

"Warp Date 21: Earth's main pastime is a game called SWAT. Some of the players wear uniforms. Others do not. They shoot what they call guns and roll over in cars. This is not a promising sign."

"Warp Date 22: On the matter of the god they call Carson. They worship him but never show him. They show instead a god called Guest Host. Am trying to determine what is a Carson and what is a Guest Host."

"Warp Date 25: Have observed in many areas a new god called The Weatherman. He laughs a lot and draws arrows on a screen. He says tomorrow will be sunny. Then it rains. Then he laughs some more."

"Warp Date 26: Have discovered why The Weatherman laughs. It is because of a sub-god called The Anchorman. When he talks to The Weatherman, everyone laughs. It apparently is a tradition of earth."

"Warp Date 56: Sorry to be late reporting. A technical failure occurred. Was monitoring an exchange between two humanoids called Cosell and Ali. Ali had said, 'I'm the greatest.' Cosell said, 'Please elucidate.' When he did, our sensors made a great roaring noise and then power failed. Fresh sensors have been installed."

"Warp Date 65: Sorry to be late reporting. Lt. Gron disappeared and a search for him has been under way. He left a note that said, 'You only get one go-around in life, and I'm reaching for the gusto.'"

"Warp Date 66: Have located Lt. Gron. He has taken humanoid form and is a Guest Host in the absence of the god Carson. We ordered Lt. Gron to return immediately. He said, 'See my agent.' Puzzling."

Joe Namath calls news conference

NEW YORK (AP) — "I think what Joe has to say will shake 'em up a little bit."
That's the way a close friend described the news conference which Joe Namath called for this afternoon at a fashionable restaurant here.

The object was clothed in mystery. Joe's attorney, Jimmy Walsh, says it directly involves the quarterback's career but only indirectly concerns the New York Jets, who were more amazed than anybody to hear of the news conference. They weren't asked to participate.

The surprising sequence of events — Joe abandoning his New England football camp temporarily to make the scene and the Jets left completely in the dark about the purpose — gave rise to all sorts of speculation.

Maybe Namath isn't a cinch, after all, to sign that three-year, $1-million offer being dangled by the Jets, the team for whom he has thrown touchdown passes and filled stadiums for the last decade.

"There's no way that Joe will sign for that kind of money," an associate insisted.
Namath wasn't saying. Neither was Walsh, who has helped Broadway Joe negotiate contracts for three movies, commercials plugging everything from popcorn to pantyhose, television appearances, restaurants and bars.

"He is the hottest commercial commodity in the country," insists the attorney.

On May 22, Namath and Walsh turned down a $4-million offer from the World Football League. Most observers assumed that Joe was definitely putting all his eggs in the same old basket — the Jets. Not necessarily.

As much as Namath likes football, he has admitted on numerous occasions that he has a yen to be a movie star. He has appeared in three movies, the best being "C.C. & Co." with Ann-Margret; has hosted a television talk show and hobnobbed with the Hollywood elite.

This is a hammer that Joe keeps poised over the heads of the Jets, just in case they try to buy him too cheaply. Namath contends that, despite his 32 years and unpredictable knees, he has at least three more years of topflight quarterbacking in his system.

He can document his case. He finished on a high note last season, passing for 20 touchdowns and 2,616 yards and leading the team to six consecutive victories.

Reportedly for $3 million Thompson signs with ABA

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer
DENVER (AP) — David Thompson, a barefoot farm boy who grew up shooting at baskets nailed to trees in the cotton country of Shelby, N.C., went to the big city to seek his fortune—and caused quite a stir.

On a historic day for professional basketball Monday, Thompson signed a six-year contract with the Denver Nuggets of the American Basketball Association. The pact reportedly is for $3 million, which would make Thompson the highest paid rookie in the history of pro sports.

Of more enduring significance, however, is the effect the signing has had on the image of the often-maligned ABA. Having gained respectability overnight, the eight-year-old league can now look with renewed hope toward a national television contract.

A merger agreement with the established National Basketball Association also may become a reality soon, putting an end to the financially crippling bidding wars.
"The significance of this signing is overwhelming," said Nuggets president and general manager Carl Scheer. "It's the first time in the eight-year history of the ABA that our league has signed a No. 1 draft choice of the NBA."

Thompson, the three-time All-American and twice college player-of-the-year from North Carolina State, had announced his intention of playing for Denver last week. The actual signing was delayed until a transfer of ownership of the Denver team to a group of Colorado businessmen, which was completed on Friday.

Thompson's decision was another major setback for the NBA Atlanta Hawks.

who also drafted the highly sought-after player and reportedly made him a similar contract offer. Previously, Atlanta lost 7-foot Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster of Morgan State and diminutive guard Monte Towse, a teammate of Thompson's, to Denver.

The 6-foot-4 Thompson, a spectacular leaper and shooter, averaged nearly 30 points per game during his college career and led the Wolfpack to the NCAA championship in 1974. He said he was influenced to sign with Denver by the city, fan support, Coach Larry Brown, the players and a winning tradition.

Scheer, one of the new owners of the Nuggets, declined comment on terms of the contract, but added: "I will say that David is a very secure 21-year-old at this time." Thompson turned 21 on Sunday.

Ninth-inning rally dooms the Archers

BELOIT, Wis. — An error, two hits and a fly ball produced two runs for Beloit in the bottom of the ninth inning as the home team slipped by the Dixon Archers 7-6, here, Monday night in a semi-pro baseball contest.

The Archers had taken a 6-5 lead in the top of the frame but could not hold the advantage. Dixon outlit the winners 10-6 with Gary Oswalt rapping out three safeties including a triple and double, while Tom Wentling and Chuck Webster had two hits each for the Archers. Pat Ryer homered for Beloit in the third.

Dixon now returns home for a doubleheader versus Belvidere on Saturday and a twinbill against Mecum Pontiac on Sunday.

NFL salaries could rise

By JOHN LUNDQUIST
Associated Press Writer
Minneapolis, Minn. (AP) — National Football League players' salaries could rise 50 to 100 per cent if the athletes were free to bargain with any clubs, an economist testified Monday.

Dr. Roger G. Noll testified if there were more competition for their services, football players might see the pay explosion that resulted when the World Hockey Association rose up to compete with the National Hockey League.

Noll, professor at California Institute of Technology who has specialized in research on the business end of sports, was a rebuttal witness for plaintiffs seeking to eliminate the Rozelle Rule.

The 15 players — some retired — contend the rule hobbles them in trying to move to other teams and get salaries commensurate with their ability.

The Rozelle Rule, or option compensation clause, provides the commission has power to dictate draft round picks or players to be given up when a free agent moves to another club and the teams can't agree on terms.

Defendants are the league, the club owners and NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle in the suit being heard by U.S. District Judge Earl Larson.

Noll, 35, holds a masters and doctorate degrees from Harvard and has served in various federal agencies including staff researcher for the President's Council of Economic Advisers, 1967-69.

He testified Monday NHL salaries rose from an average $27,000 to $40,000 the first year the WHA competed with the established hockey loop.

He predicted freeing football players from the Rozelle Rule would boost salaries most for those in lower and middle ranks, while the superstars would also benefit but not to the same proportionate extent.

Defense witnesses, including club executives, coaches and NFL officials have defended the option compensation rule and other player restrictions as necessary components in assuring competitive balance.

And the NFL front office reported two weeks ago the league is having financial problems, with eight of the 26 reporting losses for 1974.

Noll acknowledged that ticket prices are perhaps near the maximum traffic will bear. But, he insisted that "if a club is profit-oriented, the profit maximizing level is independent of the wage level."

He said higher salaries would not have appreciable short-term effects on the teams, adding that if franchises were unprofitable in one location, they might be moved and ownership change hands.

Bill is thrilled

By BRENT KALLESTAD
AP Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Halfway through his second major league season, Chicago Cubs third-baseman Bill Madlock is passing from his quest for a batting championship to participate in his first All-Star Game. Madlock, who is the National League's leading hitter with a .353 batting average, was named to the team behind third-baseman Ron Cey of Los Angeles.

BILL MADLOCK

"It's really a thrill to be here, but I deserve to be here too," said Madlock. "I know exactly what I'm hitting because my wife Cynthia told me just before I left for Milwaukee," continued Madlock. "She's my statistician. Things haven't always been as rosey for the 24-year-old Madlock, who came to Chicago from Texas prior to 1974 season along with Vic Harris in exchange for Ferguson Jenkins. "I can't win 20 games like Jenkins did for several reasons and I'm not going to hit home runs like Santo, said Madlock. "But I think Cub fans are beginning to find out what kind of a player I am." Madlock hit .313 last year in his first full season in the major leagues. "I know I'll always hit .300 so anything over that is a bonus," he said. "Confidence is half the battle. Look at Steve Garvey of the Dodgers and Al Oliver at Pittsburgh. They're both confident hitters." The 5-foot-10, 185-pound Madlock is also learning to play third base for Chicago. "I was an outfielder until last year," he continued. "Right now I feel I've got to keep learning something about playing third base or it's been a waste of time. Madlock says he closely observes Houston's Doug Rader and Ken Reitz of St. Louis to see how they play third base. "There's a lot of good ones to watch," he said. "I want to keep improving until I'm the best third baseman in the league. Madlock says he has to resist a lot of advice to try and become a power hitter. "It seems people are always telling you what you can't do in this game," said Madlock. "I am not a power hitter and I know it. I hope to be on base a lot and perhaps hit a lot of doubles. The stocky infielder doesn't mind that he's not starting tonight because he plans on making the starting team in 1976.

It takes a smart Kitchen Cabinet to Pass this test.

A basic factor in kitchen cabinet selection — and one that no remodeler should overlook — is the cabinet's performance ability. Kitchen cabinets must provide long-term daily service in the home's toughest "workroom". How well the cabinets are constructed, the amount of storage they hold, their strength, ease of operation and resistance to staining should all be considered. Our line of Schmidt Cabinets pass endurance tests for toughness and quality.

Vida Blue is confident about the AL chances

By MIKE O'BRIEN
AP Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Vida Blue exudes confidence, along with little regard for the American League's recent history of All-Star frustration. "I recall the last time the American League won one I was the starting pitcher," said the Oakland A's lefthander. "I don't see Jimmy the Greek here, but maybe that gives us a little advantage. There is no doubt in my mind the American League is just as good as the National." The American League, led by seven players from the world champion A's, will try to back up Blue's boast in baseball's 46th midsummer showcase at Milwaukee County Stadium tonight, 7:30 p.m. CDT. The American League's only victory in the last 12 All-Star games was by a 6-4 score in Detroit in 1971. Determined to reverse that trend, American Manager Alvin Dark of Oakland said he would use all of his starting pitchers. All pitchers on the AL squad were withheld from Sunday's games in an effort to gain an All-Star edge. "Vida might go three innings, but no pitcher will bat," Dark said. "If we bat around in the first inning, I'll probably pinch-hit for Vida. We're going to play to win this game. I'm sure (NL) Manager Walter Alston will do the same."

Dark's pitching corps was bolstered late Monday when Jim Palmer, Baltimore's 13-game winner, said he was ready and able to pitch following examination of his sore arm. Dark's other starting pitchers are Steve Busby, Catfish Hunter, Jim Kaat and Nolan Ryan. He has Rolfe Fingers and Rich Gossage as bullpen specialists. They will confront a National League batting order consisting of: Pete Rose, Cincinnati, right field; Lou Brock, St. Louis, left field; Joe Morgan, Cincinnati, second base; Johnny Bench, Cincinnati, catcher; Steve Garvey, Los Angeles, first base; Jimmy Wynn, Los Angeles, center field; Ron Cey, Los Angeles, third base; Dave Concepcion, Cincinnati, shortstop, and Jerry Reuss, Pittsburgh, pitcher. "If we can't get runs with this club, then I'm in a slump," quipped Alston, the Dodgers' long-time manager. Dark's batting order reads: Bobby Bonds, New York, center field; Rod Carew, Minnesota, second base; Thurman Munson, New York, catcher; Reggie Jackson, Oakland, right field; Joe Rudi, Oakland, left field; Craig Nettles, New York, third base; Gene Tenace, Oakland, first base; Bert Campaneris, Oakland, shortstop, and Blue. Alston, whose pitchers did not have to be withheld from play last Sunday, wasn't sure who would follow Reuss, his freshest pitcher with four days of rest.

Orta will be at the game

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — When they introduce the American League team before tonight's 46th All-Star baseball game, Jorge Orta will trot on the field along with Rod Carew and Reggie Jackson and the rest of the AL All-Stars. It will be the last time that Orta leaves the dugout tonight. Chosen for the AL squad by manager Alvin Dark, Orta had to be scratched because of a pulled hamstring in his right leg. He could not play, but that didn't mean he could not be here.

"You don't get the chance to be on the AL All-Star team that often," said the Chicago White Sox second baseman. "I was thrilled to be chosen." Even though he couldn't play, Orta wanted to be a part of the All-Star scene. So after Toby Harrah of Texas was named to replace him on the roster, Orta asked if he could be allowed to dress and sit on the AL bench for tonight's game.

Now there are some players who aren't exactly keen about coming to All-Star games. They prefer the three days off to renew acquaintances with their families. Don't include Orta with them. "I never thought of the days off," he said. "Everybody thinks differently. I guess. But for me, well, if I have a chance to come to the All-Star game I come."

The Doctor Says:

By LAWRENCE LAMB, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 59-year-old woman, 5 feet 2 and weight 129 pounds. My problem is cholesterol.
Two years ago when I wasn't feeling very good, I visited my doctor. My cholesterol was 405, which was much too high. He gave me instructions about diet and put me on Atromid-S before each meal and at bedtime. I took these for over a year, and my cholesterol dropped to 249 and my triglycerides to 89.
My doctor decided to take me off medication and let me only diet. In three months my cholesterol was 278 and in six months it was 328 and my triglycerides 84. Believe me, doctor, I have tried so desperately to diet and what a letdown when he told me it was up again. I never have an egg in cooking except the whites. I use only polyunsaturated margarine and corn oil. I eat chicken breasts with no fat and fish. Everything is broiled. I love vegetables and fruit.

Please tell me why my cholesterol should go up. Or, why can't I have Atromid-S to help me? I have never had any serious illness and do feel fine. My blood pressure stays about 130. Are there any serious side effects from these pills?
DEAR READER—The diet is very important in controlling cholesterol and blood fats (triglycerides). It helps but is not adequate in some cases. In general, I don't believe in using pills in place of correcting faulty living habits, but when the living habits have been corrected and the basic problem is not corrected then you need to use other measures.

Your doctor was justified in trying to see how you would get along on diet management. Many people who have high cholesterol and normal triglycerides (fats) will still have high cholesterol levels in spite of a good diet as you describe. These are the people who need medicine in addition to the dietary program—not in place of it. These people often have a fairly definite familial incidence of high cholesterol levels. The tendency is inherited, and the level stays too high, in spite of diet and exercise. They respond differently from people who have high cholesterol and high blood fats from moderate or more than moderate obesity and who have high levels from their dietary habits and lack of activity.

Atromid-S is a good medicine. It can be used safely by most people. It can cause some digestive upsets in some people and like nearly all medicines it can cause side effects, but these are really fairly uncommon and not serious. It should not be used by women during pregnancy, but you don't need to worry about that.

For Wednesday, July 16, 1975

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your day will be happier if you concentrate on helping friends or family, rather than pursuing self-interest.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
You are attuned to verbal or written communication today. You must, however, be wary of offending by thoughtless actions.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Work, especially if physical labor, will depress you. Take a lighthearted shopping trip or visit some friends if you can.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
The confines of the home and family will make your day more pleasant. Pals, even close ones, will get under your skin.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Your mood is subdued. You must be careful that someone in authority doesn't mistake your low-key attitude for indifference to duties.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Stay in familiar areas if involved in a group discussion. Otherwise, your lack of knowledge will be easily exposed.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Friends will make you the top banana today. Don't let this turn your head so much you become overly-generous.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
You're able to accomplish most anything you want to today. Guard against becoming too cocky and thus offending less capable friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
If possible, avoid physical labor or work with tools or machinery today. Sports activity would be safer for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You'll be very nervous in a large social gathering today. Choose a close friend or two. Have a quiet get-together.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
At work you'll get many pats on the back and words of praise. Don't expect the same reception at home.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
If you want to communicate with a friend, write a letter. It's likely, if you drop over to his house, he won't be home.

Your Birthday
July 16, 1975
The coming year will be an excellent one for you to take a chance where you have been afraid in the past. It will pay off in money and happiness.

HART-CARTER FLOATING CUTTER BAR GETS "DOWN" TO BUSINESS

"The best thing on the market today, to combat soybean losses at harvest, is a floating cutter bar extension" (So states a noted agri-engineer, a leading authority on harvest of soybeans). Hart-Carter cutter bar flexes and bends, helping you cut low with the contour of the ground. It is the perfect profit partner for the popular Hart-Carter pick-up reel.
